PALESTINE QUIET

AIR OF TENSION STILL EXISTING

HAIFA HARBOUR CEREMONY

London, Oct. 30.

According to reports reaching London, the situation in Palestine was to-day quiet though some tension still exists after the riots of week-end.

This morning, the High Commissioner, Sir Arthur Waugh, visited the Government Hospital in Jerusalem, to which those wounded in Sunday's disturbances had been taken.

The formal opening of Haifa Harbour to-morrow will take place but the ceremony has been curtailed.

It would appear that the recent troubles largely originated in the mistaken belief among the Arab population that the events in Germany had led to the admission to Palestine of an excessive number of Jewish emigrants.

The facts are that the emigrants of all nationalities are controlled by the Palestine Government, particularly as regards those seeking employment, the numbers of whom are regulated not by the conditions in other countries but by the capacity of Palestine probably to absorb the additional labour.—British Wireless.

MR. LIEN WEN-TAO LEAVES BERLIN

REGRETS NEED FOR DEPARTURE

Berlin, Oct. 30.

The Chinese Minister, Mr. Lien Wen-tao left for Rome last night. He was seen off at the station by all Legation officials and representatives of the Foreign Office.

Mr. Lien Wen-tao, prior to leaving, said he was very unwilling to be leaving Berlin, of which he was very fond not only as a capital but as a centre of art.—Reuter.

STOP PRESS

Washington, Oct. 30.

Moves by the United States Administration for an understanding with Great Britain on the gold situation were made to-night.

In order to further the quest, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross interrupted the debt talks to confer with Mr. Acheson, the Under-Secretary of the U.S. Treasury, and Mr. Eugene Black, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt's "hides" are prepared for gold purchases abroad on Wednesday at latest.

The Federal Reserve Board held two long sessions to-day. President Roosevelt received Mr. Harrison, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, this evening.—Reuter.

ATLANTIC AIR MAIL

SIR ERIC GEDDES' SURVEY

PLAN OF IMPERIAL AIRWAYS

London, Oct. 30.

Presiding at the general meeting of Imperial Airways to-day, Sir Eric Geddes referred to the extension of the England-India route to Australia.

He said the service had been extended from Karachi to Rangoon, and by the end of December would be operating to Singapore.

The Australian Government, he said, has assumed responsibility for establishing a line from Singapore to a point in Australia, and has decided to invite tenders for the carriage of air mails over the section of the line.

The Imperial Airways have made a concordat with Queensland and Northern Territory Aerial Services Limited of Brisbane for formation of a joint company to tender for and if successful, to operate to Singapore. Attention was now being devoted to the North Atlantic project and the company had made satisfactory contracts in regard to co-operation with Canadian and New Foundland Governments on this route.

TRANS-ATLANTIC PROJECT.

"Canada is likely to be by force of circumstances, the last of the Great Dominions with whom we shall make contact by means of a regular air service," Sir Eric said. "We can, however, look forward to developments taking place on this Trans-Atlantic project in complete harmony with Great Britain and Canada."

They hoped to establish during next year, in co-operation with the Pan-American Airways, a service between Bermuda and United States.

Sir Eric cited the large increase in traffic carried by the Imperial Airways during past year.—British Wireless.

CABINET AGREE ON POLICY

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN FISCAL LAWS

Paris, Oct. 30.

The new French Cabinet headed by M. Albert Sarraut held its first meeting to-day, when the declaration of policy to be presented to the Chamber was discussed.

It is learned that the Cabinet unanimously approved the draft of the declaration, which will be announced in the Chamber on Friday.

It is also learned that M. Sarraut will probably announce the early presentation of an ambitious scheme to assist in French economic recovery by utilising all the resources of the French Colonial Empire.

He will also announce the elaboration of a new plan of national work and the intention of effecting important changes in the present fiscal laws.—Reuter.

JACKIE BROWN BEATEN

THRILLING BOUT IN LONDON

WOLCAST'S FINE DISPLAY

London, Oct. 30.

In one of the most exciting fights seen in England for many years, Midget Wolgast outpointed Jackie Brown, of Manchester, at the Albert Hall to-night.

Jackie Brown is the official world's flyweight champion, but the contest was a non-title fight.

Midget Wolgast has long been recognised as one of the most brilliant fighters at his weight in the world. In some States of America, he is regarded and described as the world's champion.

To-night's contest was over twelve rounds and it provided a magnificent scrap, the fastest and best in the memory of most spectators.

MAGNIFICENT BOXING.

Both boxers displayed magnificent generalship and ringcraft, speedy footwork and punching.

Wolgast flashed in stinging lefts to the face with telling effect on several occasions, staggering Brown, who retaliated by forceful rushes, which carried the American into the ropes where Brown dealt out heavy punishment.

There was little between them at the finish but the decision was correctly given to Wolgast.—Reuter.

H.E.'S VISIT TO MACAO

PAYING RETURN CALL TO-DAY

His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, accompanied by Lady Peel, Capt. R. F. Walter and Mr. J. G. Pilcher, Private Secretary, left for Macao this morning shortly after 8 a.m. to return a call of the Governor of Macao, Liout Col. Bernardino de Miranda. On arrival aboard the Tarantula His Excellency was greeted with a salute of 17 guns.

The party will return to Hongkong this evening about sunset.

Notice has been given of the forthcoming marriage of Mr. Leo D'Almeida, a Castro Junior, barrister-at-law, of 102, Waterloo Road, Kowloon Tong, and Miss Clotilde Barretto, of 187, Waterloo Road.

FACING GRAVE CRISIS

SIR WALTER LAYTON'S ADVICE

The internationalisation of aviation as the means of world security and world peace was advanced by Lord Allen of Hurwood, addressing a youth rally of the League of Nations Union at Harrow School.

The subject of discussion was: "What can you do to avert world chaos?"

Mr. H. W. Austin, the England tennis player, was in the chair. "The heart of the war problem is fear," said Lord Allen. "We have destroyed that fear inside our own nation by instituting a police force."

"We must do the same in the world. The issue of force must be faced. It can be faced by internationalisation of all forces of aviation."

He said that Great Britain must be prepared to take her part in the policing of the world.

OVER-PRODUCTION AND CHAOS.

Sir Walter Layton, continuing the discussion, said that at present we were facing a crisis comparable to that of the War.

The conditions of the world at present had led to an economic restriction equivalent to that during the War.

This had been brought about by the same nationalism that had brought about the war. Each nation was striving for self-sufficiency and Sir Walter showed in detail how this led to the over-production, which had caused the present chaos.

"The doctrine of 1913," he added, "is being preached in Germany that war is the highest expression of the human spirit."

Sir Walter's advice to youth was: "Study and understand."

He asked his audience to try to understand the point of view of youth in Nazi Germany or Communist Russia.

"We have," he said, "to create the international world to take responsibility for law and order and to turn our backs on a policy of exclusiveness."

After Sir Walter had finished, a resolution to be forwarded to the Disarmament Conference at Geneva, expressing hope for the success of their work, was put to the meeting and passed unanimously.

ANOTHER QUAKE

Los Angeles, Oct. 24.

An earthquake strong enough to dislodge loose stones and shake nerves jarred Los Angeles and vicinity at 11 o'clock to-night.

An old courthouse fell within a fenced area erected after the March 10 disaster, as a result of which the structure was condemned.

Mr. Yotaro Sugimura, former Vice-Secretary of the League of Nations and Baron Tokugawa, Japanese Minister to Canada, who are on a tour of Manchuria and China. They were reported to be travelling to Hongkong on the President Hoover, but their names did not appear in the passenger list. It is, however, believed that they intend to visit Hongkong and Canton.

Big Development Programme

London, Oct. 30.

Improved trade conditions have caused the London and North Eastern Railway to undertake the service of a development programme costing £2,300,000 which will include the construction of many additional engines and vehicles for the extension of its fast freight and express passenger traffic.—British Wireless.

CONSULATE MURDER

LIFE SENTENCE ON UKRAINIAN

STRANGE LWOW OUTRAGE

Warsaw, Oct. 30.

The trial of the Ukrainian student, Mikolaj Lemyk, arrested following the shooting at the office of the Soviet Consul at Lwow, concluded to-day.

Lemky was found guilty of the murder of an official of the Consulate, and was sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Lemky confessed that he was an agent of a Ukrainian terrorist organisation.

The outrage was a strange one in many ways. Lemky appears to have entered the office, planning an attempt on the life of the Vice-Consul, to have shot one official dead and to have slightly wounded another, and then to have locked the doors and barred the windows of the premises, with himself inside certain to be captured.

Police summoned forced an entry through a window on the second floor and arrested Lemky.—Reuter.

The marriage is announced to take place in the near future of Commander Charles Thorburn Addis, R.N., of H.M.S. Medway, and Miss Pamela Poland, of New Marble Hall, Kowloon.

TRADE DIVISION

USEFUL PREFERENCE FOR LANCASHIRE

INDIA COTTON PARLEYS

New Delhi, Oct. 30.

A substantial preference for Lancashire has been agreed upon by the Japanese and Indian cotton delegates.

A tariff of fifty per cent. ad valorem on most cotton textile qualities, and specific duties on the remainder, with Imperial Preference, was agreed upon by the Indian and Japanese delegations which met here for the first time since the Simla talks.

This means that if the duty against Lancashire remains at twenty-five per cent. as at present, Lancashire will receive a preference by the same margin.

The delegations also reached an agreement in principle on the basis of the imposition of specific duties and the application thereto of the most favoured nation clause.

GULF NARROWED.

It is understood that the gulf has been sensibly narrowed and that the Osaka mill-owners are less intransigent than they were originally. It is believed that the one important issue now to be overcome is the extent of the Japanese quota. It is believed that India is insisting on a quota not exceeding 350,000,000 yards, while Japan wants 650,000,000 yards.—Reuter.

SHIP COLLISION

STEAMER HITS A CUTTER

Manila, Oct. 26.

The s.s. Regulus, inter-island steamer, rammed the s.s. Pathfinder, U.S. coast and govt. cutter at 6 o'clock yesterday morning in the Pasig river. The gunwale of the Pathfinder was damaged while one of the cutter's lifeboats was smashed.

The accident occurred when B. Biel, pilot, was trying to take the Regulus out of the river so she could proceed to Cavite for cleaning. The Pathfinder was tied up along the wharf at Magallanes Landing.

THE PANTER CASE

NO CHARGE YET MADE

THE EMBASSY'S REQUEST

London, Oct. 30.

The British Ambassador in Germany, Sir Eric Phipps, has received a further note from the German Ministry for Foreign Affairs, from which it appears that no decision has yet been taken with regard to the formulation of a charge against Mr. Noel Panter, correspondent in Munich of the Daily Telegraph who was arrested by the Bavarian police six days ago.

The British Ambassador has requested the Minister for Foreign Affairs to furnish him at the earliest possible moment with precise information regarding the charge.

It is understood that the normal procedure in this case would be for the Bavarian Government to send papers to the State Prosecutor at Leipzig with a recommendation as to the nature of the charge.

Only the State Prosecutor, however, can decide whether the case should be proceeded with and, if so, in virtue of which article in the Criminal Code the charge should be preferred.—British Wireless.

SHARE SLUMP IN NEW YORK

GOLD PLAN HAS NO EFFECT

Suggestions of inflationary measures are still failing to make an impression on the New York Stock Exchange and there was a heavy slump in share prices again. Many stocks fell as much as five points.

There were rumours of the imposition of a gold embargo by France, which cannot be confirmed.

Anticipate Reprisals.

New York, Oct. 30.

Orthodox economists in Washington and Wall Street predict foreign reprisals with serious consequences, if the United States plays a lone hand regarding currency.

They are of the opinion that Great Britain will defend her trading position by trade currency measures, while France may put an embargo on gold exports or abandon the gold standard.

On the other hand, the New York Times claims that the White House conference strongly favoured the continuation of consultation with the Bank of England, which might portend the ultimate stabilisation of the dollar sterling exchange, at least.

The New York Herald-Tribune hints at an agreement between the Federal Reserve of America and the Bank of France.

It is said that the administration has not yet decided how much gold will be bought.—Reuter.

France on Defensive.

Paris, Oct. 30.

Financial circles regard President Roosevelt's decision to purchase gold abroad as a deliberate attempt to force the gold standard countries into line with American policy, or off the gold standard.

An anonymous personage, reputedly speaking for the Bank of France, believes that it is unlikely that American buying will assume large proportions on account of the smallness of American credits here.

He added significantly: "President Roosevelt's action makes it urgently necessary for France to balance her budget."—Reuter.

The R. M. S. "Empress of Canada," from Manila, is due here at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, and will berth at Kowloon Wharf.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Here Are Some Smart Fall Stationery Ideas You'll Want to Adopt to the Letter!

DESIGNS EXPRESS INDIVIDUALITY;
WHITE, PASTEL SHADES MODISH

For the man or woman of letters, simplicity is the keynote for stationery design. These exhibits, ranging from the traditional monogram to the unique planboard insignia, reflect the trend of the newest letterhead styles.

New York.—Stationery should express your individuality this fall.

Never has there been such an attractive array of colours and designs. It's positively a joy to go shopping for letter paper these days.

The gay little co-ed will love stationery which has the name of her dormitory, as well as that of her college, engraved on the top of the paper.

Other college women are apt to choose writing paper which has personal initials in one corner, address in the other, and a broad diagonal stripe in the college colours running across the top of the paper.

Anyone lucky enough to have a picturesque country or town house ought not to pass up a chance to have a photograph of it engraved for a striking stationery design.

For those living at the beach or near a lake, why not carry a nautical idea on your choice of stationery? What could be nicer than an anchor, with perhaps a fish near it, in one corner? If you write little invitations on such paper, there'll be no doubt in your guests' minds as to what kind of wearing apparel to bring along for their visit with you.

A lady who has a summer camp in the mountains would do well to have a pine tree engraved in one corner of her writing paper.

As an economy proposition as well as a splendid idea, why not have one design in stationery serve the whole family?

Have the family name, plus an "s," with the address below, across the top of the paper. Each member of the family can use it with perfect good taste.

Nor has the artist been left out of the stationery picture. The pianist can have a row of piano keys across the top of the paper and the painter might select an easel.

Simple ideas are best for everyone, particularly for a child. The first name is enough.

White and the pastel shades are in best taste. You can't go wrong if you choose white, pale gray or delicate beige.

Nearly everyone needs two sizes of stationery—one for little notes of "thank you" and the like, and another larger size for letters.

If you don't care to have your full name and address on your stationery, at least have your initials. Monograms range from modernistic styles to Old English.

Personally engraved stationery is always a perfect gift. Engraved note paper is a splendid little remembrance to take along to your hostess. The paper which serves the whole family solves the problem of choosing individual gifts for each member.

Giving a small child his own personal writing paper teaches him to take pride in sending out nice looking letters.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Rid Superfluous Hair by Rubbing

By Alicia Hart

A glove which is used to remove superfluous hair is, to say the least, a very bright idea.

You simply slip the fingerless glove on your hand and then, with circular motions, rub the places where superfluous hair exists. The hair falls off after a few rubs, leaving the skin smooth and soft.

Women who dislike the unfeminine idea of using a razor or who haven't time for depilatories are going to like the new little glove.

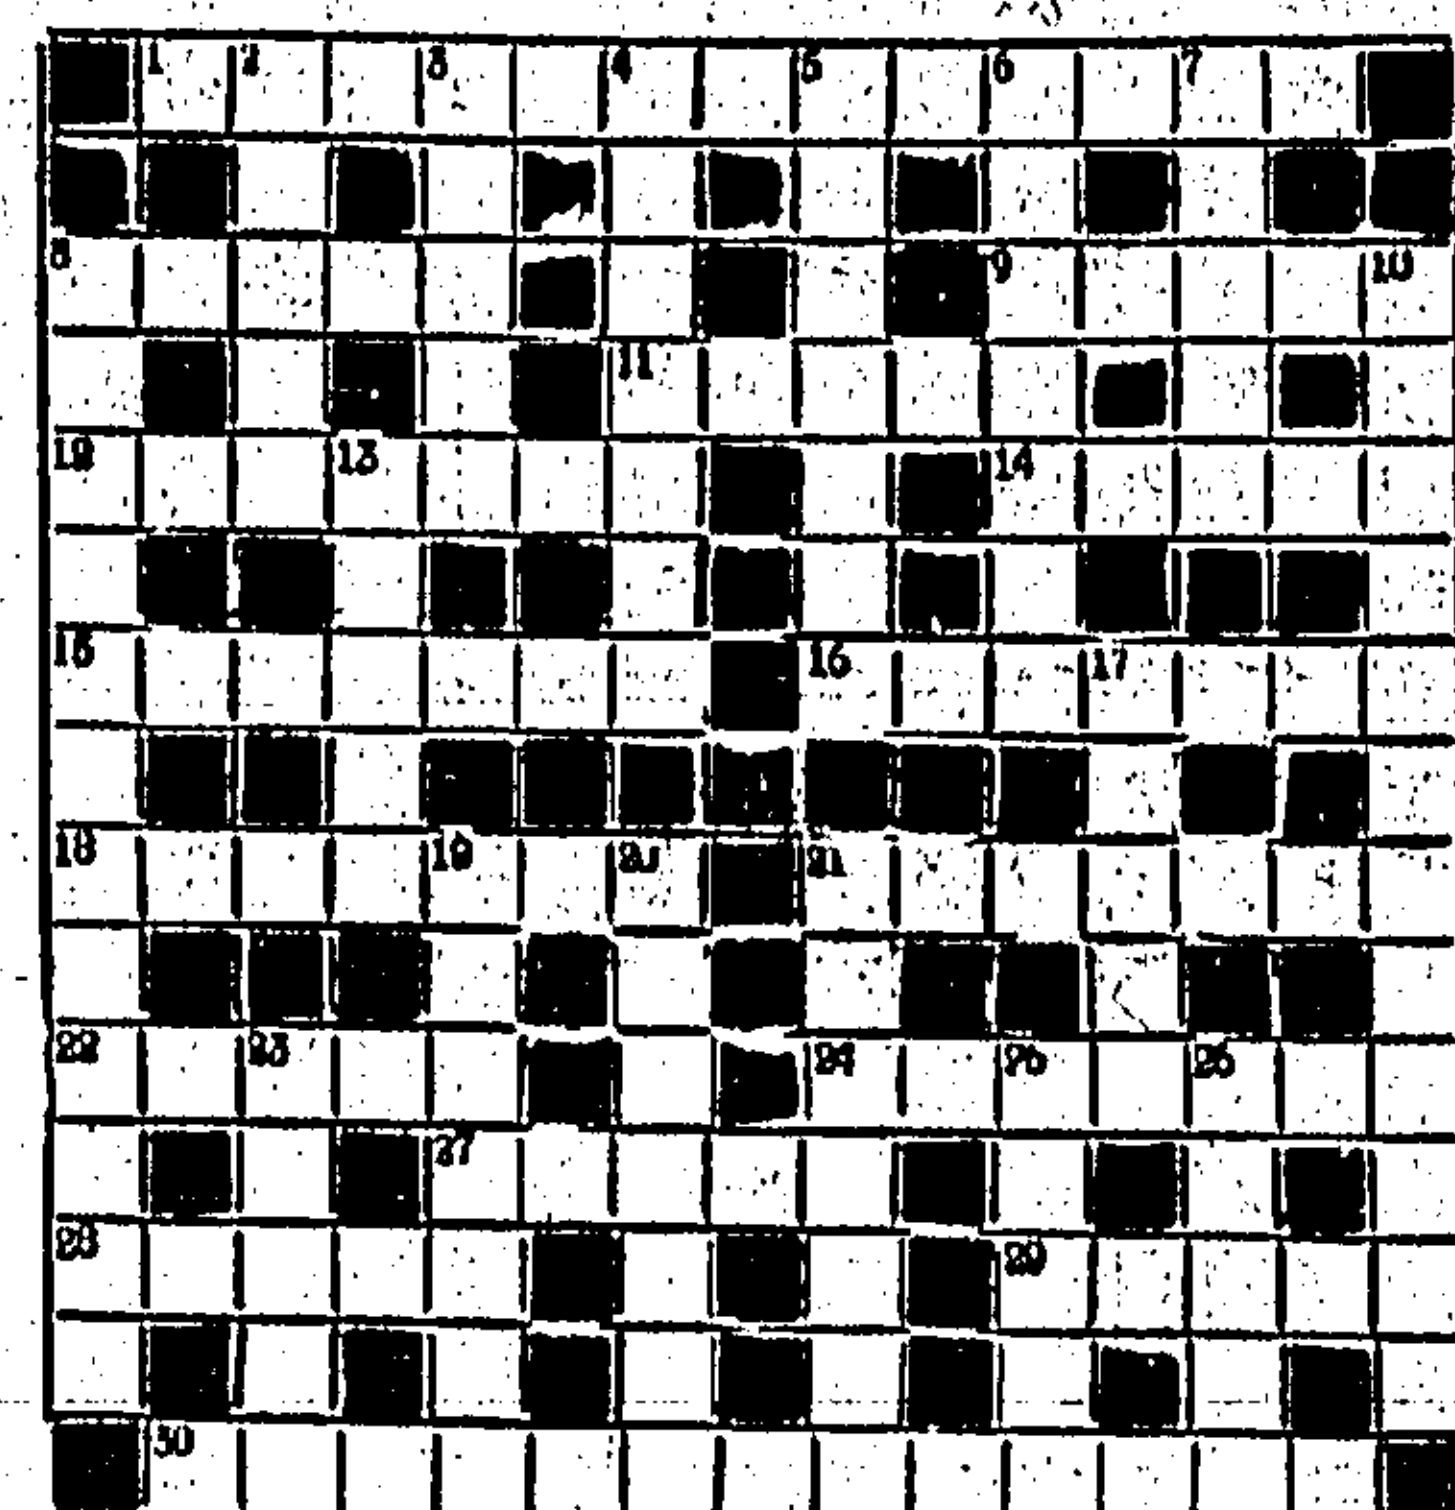

Be sure that your skin is perfectly dry before you start to rub it with the glove. The people who sponsor the new gadget claim that it tends to weaken the hair and will, in time, affect the roots and discourage extensive growth.

It's not at all expensive and lasts quite a long time, since both sides to the glove can be used.

Compacts which match either your dress or your accessories are a joy. A white evening gown, with red shoes, is handsomely complemented by a red lacquered compact.

Wooden compacts are smart as can be. They are large and flat and the grain of the wood is most amusing and decorative. If you have some of the new accessories of wood, by all means have a compact to match.

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

A Summer Mystery BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

CHAPTER XIII.

"Concerning a Cave"

Unless you are in a sentimental mood, beaches are not nice things on pitch dark nights. You know that behind you is a cliff, which in daylight is full of cheerful colour, and that before you is a sea, which in daylight sparkles joyously, but when the sun has departed and the moon has not taken its place, behind you and before you and on all sides of you are great black spaces filled with uncomfortable possibilities.

Dark beaches may not perhaps appeal to all people in precisely this way, but this was the way in which the beach at Craverville appealed to Napoleon Truclove when he and Leonard Sefton descended to it. The blackened-out cliffs, instead of having occasional caves dotted about at pleasant intervals, became full of caves, and in each cavern lurked some disturbing thing. Yet, if one turned to face the potential danger, as self-protective instinct inclined one to do, the sea came slipping mysteriously behind one, bearing its foam and foam of unreasoned and unreasonable forebodings. But the forebodings, in Napoleon's case, could not strictly be called unreasonable for as he stood for a moment and watched the sheets of softly gliding white sweeping towards him and away from him—right on him one instant, receding far from him the next, flouting perspective—he knew that in a very few minutes he would be riding across those waves towards a dead ship he could not see, on a mission the outcome of which he could not fathom.

"Darned dark, isn't it?" he murmured. "Where's our little pleasure steamer, and how are we going to find it?"

"The boat's beached in a large-sized cave," answered Leonard. "It's a little way along the cliff to our right. I came upon it while I was searching for that disappearing corpse."

"And got permission to use it, just when you liked?"

"No. I'm not asking permission from anybody this trip. Come along, we'd better be moving. Hello—see it?"

"Eh? See what?" jerked Napoleon, twisting his head round galvanically.

"The light. Over there."

Napoleon stared, rather grum-

ply. "Yes, I see it. You'd think it was a pretty bunch of flowers, the way you talk. And, by the way, don't forget what I told you about giving me warning when you hike me from one thing to another."

"Sorry," said Leonard, "but you'll get used to it."

"I expect so. I shall get to love it, and I'll refuse to spend any more nights at home. Well, there's one thing about that light. It'll help us to locate our ship. How on earth did you reckon to make the ship otherwise? Throw the dice and guess?"

"I, also, may be an ass, but I'm not a silly ass," responded Leonard. "I've taken my bearings—and I've got a compass."

"Hoody," muttered Napoleon, disappointedly. "Then we won't be able to miss it."

They were walking now towards the cave in which Leonard had discovered the boat. It was one of the first caves he had searched, and was one of the few he had come upon large enough to serve as a boat-house. They plodded across the sand for a couple of minutes, Leonard flashing his light on the base of the cliffs at intervals while they walked, and he was just beginning to wonder whether he had made a mistake and passed the cave when he saw its black opening a little way ahead.

"Ah, there it is," he exclaimed.

"Queer how distance always confuses one at night."

"Don't see your boat," answered Napoleon. "Pretty snugly tucked away, isn't it?"

Leonard did not answer immediately. Walking up to the cave entrance, he directed the ray of his flash-lamp towards the interior.

"The boat's not there," he said.

"Somebody's taken it."

There was silence for a few moments, while the two men considered the position. One of the men, at least, found some fragment of consolation in their disappointment.

"After all, it's not so surprising," observed this one, as he followed the other into the cave. "If the boat had been ours, we would have had a right to kick up a shindy. The owner's just taken his blessed boat away, that's all."

"It's not all," replied Leonard, shortly. "It leaves us without a boat."

"Ah, that's true," agreed Napoleon, struggling to introduce the requisite note of depression into his too-biting voice.

"Nor is the fact that the owner has taken his boat as natural as you suggest," went on Leonard. "It's a bit dark for a journey, isn't it?"

"In fact, I'm not only wondering what you and I are going to do without that boat, Truclove," said Leonard. "I'm wondering just as much what the owner of the boat is doing with it."

"I wouldn't worry, old chap," answered Napoleon. "He's probably havin' a lovely time—just as we were going to. But look here, I say—why shouldn't he have just moved the boat?"

"You mean it might be on another part of the beach?—Yes, of course, it might. And we'll have to hunt for it. I haven't much hope, but.

He stopped speaking abruptly, and switched out his light.

"Damn," thought Napoleon. "And I was just beginning to feel happy again!"

They listened. Faint footsteps sounded outside the cave. There were slow, quiet, and stealthy. As the steps drew nearer, pausing every now and then for a few moments and then resuming, Leonard put his hand on his companion's shoulder and drew him back into an angle of the cave.

At first, Napoleon gently resisted. The angle of the cave did not appeal to him any more than the outside of the cave. But his resistance yielded precipitately when a shadowy figure suddenly made a blot on the dimness which vaguely differentiated the space at the entrance from the more opaque blackness of the cave's interior walls.

Leonard did not have to pull Napoleon into the angle then. Napoleon now pushed to get there.

With that momentary glimpse tantalising their minds, they awaited further developments. There was a long pause. The footsteps were resumed, their soft plop now changing to a more gritty, metallic tread as heavy boots met the harder substance of the cave's floor.

Three strides, and silence fell again. The intruder was evidently standing just inside the cave. Napoleon seriously considered the prospect of yelling "Boo," because no situation could arise, he reflected, which could be more trying than the present one. Any change must be for the better. But he resisted the temptation, and in about a minute the footsteps sounded again. This time, however, they grew softer instead of louder, and, before long, they ceased altogether.

"Good rid—" began Napoleon, and stopped in obedience to a gentle punch.

"Oh—you mean he may be waiting—"

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

"I want to be bad," insisted Claudette Colbert, dark-haired, dark-eyed movie star.

"O.K.," said Cecil B. De Mille, noted movie director. And Claudette got the most villainous feminine role Hollywood has had to offer in some years.

She is cast as the Empress Poppea, beautiful but cruel consort of Nero, last of the Caesars, in De Mille's "The Sign of the Cross," which is now at the Queen's Theatre. Charles Laughton, Broadway and London stage favourite, who made his movie debut in "Devil and the Deep," with sensational success, plays the role of Nero. Frederic March and Eliana Landi have other leading roles, and nearly 7,500 other persons are members of the cast.

Miss Colbert admits she was tired of good-girl roles. Since her entrance to the movies, after winning stage success on Broadway, she has never played a role that called for more than mild misbehaviour. Being too good in her roles was beginning to get on her nerves, she said.

"Bondage" comes on Thursday to the King's Theatre to expose the pain and misery these youths suffer.

It is the story of a shop-girl, ignorant of life and innocent of its more serious side, who places her heart in a man's false promises. She may be a girl you know, living just down the street from you. She is every girl, seeking peace and happiness in a world that gives only sparingly.

Dorothy Jordan and Alexander Kirkland have the featured roles in this powerful Fox picture and the supporting cast includes Merle Tottenham, Nydia Westman, Jane Darwell, Edward Woods, Isabel Jewell, Dorothy Libarie and Rafaela Orlano.

"Quick Millions"

Rowland Brown, whose authorship of "The Doorway to Hell" won him a Fox Film contract and a chance to direct "Quick Millions," Fox drama starring Spencer Tracy, will be seen at the Oriental Theatre on Wednesday, and Thursday, has had a colourful career that ranges from a "hitch" in the U.S. Navy to being a fashion artist for the Detroit Times. He also has been a professional pugilist, a baseball player and proprietor of a night club.

In addition to directing "Quick Millions," he is co-author with Courtenay Terrett.

Spencer Tracy, whose first talking picture, "Up The River," established him as one of the most outstanding actors yet brought from the Broadway stage to the screen, has the stellar role. Other important players in the cast are Sally Eilers, Marguerite Churchill and Warner Richmond.

"I Loved You Wednesday"

The success of Miriam Jordan on the screen seems to be bound up inseparably with Warner Baxter, Fox Film star.

In three of her first four pictures, Miss Jordan has shared honours with Baxter. He was also instrumental in helping her get her contract with Fox. When he was to make her test, she was nervous and felt that she could do better if she had someone to enact the scene with her.

LAY THIS INFLATION BOGY

al, no longer deprived of money for unemployment pay, can buy more goods.

The increased demand for goods means more remunerative (not necessarily higher) prices for the manufacturers, and increased demand and better wages for labour. Better pay for labour, because—in order to cope with the enhanced demand for goods—industry will soon be calling out for many of those put on public tasks, and will necessarily have to offer attractive rates of wages as the means of getting them. No strikes, no lock-outs, no long-drawn-out negotiations, no futile Socialism.

That is the desirable, normal state of affairs that would be brought about by the rational issue and rational application of additional currency.

The permanent cure for unemployment is to establish the balance between the production of goods and the production of general well-being. This can be done by the sensible use of currency.

Away with the make-believe of the "economists." Put greater purchasing power in the hands of the people, and lay that "inflation" bogy.

Baxter volunteered, and on a few minutes notice played opposite her for the test, a job usually relegated to one of the youngsters on the lot.

Encouraged by his quiet confidence in her ability, the girl did her best work, and was immediately signed.

She first played opposite Baxter in "6 Hours to Live," then in "Dangerously Yours," and now she is in the cast of "I Loved You Wednesday," which in addition to Baxter and Miss Jordan, number Eliana Landi, Victor Jory and Laura Hope Crews among the principals. "I Loved You Wednesday" is now at the King's Theatre.

"Fra Diavolo"

The whole family will enjoy Laurel and Hardy's latest feature-length comedy, "Fra Diavolo," which is scheduled to open on Friday at the Queen's Theatre for it is a picture which bears not only the stamp of individual, inimitable humour which these two are noted for, but which has been supplied with a highly colourful musical background. Laid in a picturesque era of nobility, courtly ladies and highway bandits, the plot gives the Mosars, Laurel and Hardy every opportunity to make delectable fools of themselves and to become involved in a series of side-splitting adventures which almost leads them to the gallows.

The fun begins when the pair are robbed of their life savings by a bandit and, seeking revenge, hit upon the bright idea of becoming brigands themselves. Hardy pretends he is Diavolo, a notorious bandit chief, known throughout the country. Laurel becomes his trusted henchman. Eventually they encounter the dangerous Diavolo himself and are made his prisoners. Their attempts to escape, their blunders in trying to prevent the bandit chief from robbing the lovely Lady Pamela, and their interference in a romantic liaison between a young officer and an innkeeper's daughter, supply the situations which keep the audience rolling in its seats.

The comic pair have never been funnier. The picture is also benefited by an excellent supporting cast, which features the well-known stage star, Dennis King, who sings a number of rollicking ballads and proves himself equally expert at dramatic work in the dual role of Diavolo and the Marquis de San Marco.

AMERICA'S PROGRAMME

In twelve months' time, it may be possible to get a good idea of the way the American recovery programme is going to work out. The one thing clear to-day is that all signs fall in a time like the present. The United States is trying something so completely new that an observer has nothing dependable to go on. Everything is adrift, and about the only prediction that seems safe is that when the various blocks have all been put together again the picture will look like nothing ever seen before. It is for this reason that all the learned attempts to analyse and dissect the recovery programme are so contradictory. No two critics get the same result. Does the arch-conservative complain—as one did recently—that it is getting almost impossible to tell the news from Moscow from the news from Washington these days? Elsewhere you can find the arch-radical protesting that the whole business is just a great Fascist coup designed to enthrone privileged wealth forever. Does the studious economist prove conclusively, with graphs and columns of figures, that the kind of economy represented in the industrial and agricultural control plans cannot possibly work. You can find books by equally studious economists (written before March 4) proving that only through a planned economy similar to the one now being attempted can a mechanised modern society survive. The doctors, in other words, disagree about as thoroughly as can be imagined; and the more thoughtful and learned they are, the more they seem to differ with one another. What it all comes down to is the fact that America is set on a road so new that the maps have got to be made up as she goes along. The famous war-time song "We don't know where we're going but we're on our way" fairly represents the situation. It is just as true with the decision to purchase gold abroad as it is with the internal programme of the gold plan. President Roosevelt doubtless has an objective, but he can only achieve it if other countries are prepared to submit quietly, which seems most unlikely. That is the danger in the situation. Domestically, the United States can do much as she likes. The ability to push through the programme depends upon whether democratic society can live up to a supreme test, and produce the necessary aptitude for the science of politics. Outside America, it impinges on the ideas of other countries and a currency war seems inevitable.

NOTES OF THE DAY

TROUBLOUS DAYS

All the news these days seems to consist of crises and rumours of crises. A Cabinet falls in France. Riots accompany elections in Spain. Arabs riot in Palestine. Mr. T. V. Soong resigns. The Grau San Martin Government in Cuba is on the verge of collapse. An English journalist is arrested in Munich. A shake-up in the United States Administration looks possible. And a Labour candidate captures East Fulham. Most striking of all, the world economic depression is almost one hundred per cent. responsible, directly or indirectly, for each and every development that has provided a head-line in the last few days. Yet life, in the main, goes on much as usual. Ninety per cent. take but a casual interest. The remainder split into diametrically opposite camps, those who feel it great to be alive in this era of world change and those who hanker for a desert island—with out a radio.

T. V. SOONG

Mr. Soong's resignation has shaken Shanghai severely and no one will question that he takes away with him one of the main props of the Nanking Government's stability. Bankers have given him credit facilities which they would have hesitated to grant to many others in times of national turmoil. He remains among the few Chinese leaders whose integrity and singleness of purpose have gone largely unquestioned even by his political foes. His resignation appears to have arisen from the instinct for commonsense; the country's finances are already in a too parlous a state to permit further excessive military expenditure to be countenanced by a sound financier. Mr. Kung takes over an uninviting, thankless task with all good wishes and a feeling that he is, perhaps, the next best man in such an emergency. But there would be widespread satisfaction if Mr. Soong could be prevailed upon to reconsider his decision—if it did not also mean the surrendering of his principles.

ARAB UNREST

The unrest in Palestine provides another striking example of the interdependence of peoples in this modern world. It seems to be a direct repercussion of the rise of Nazidom. Jews find existence next to impossible in Germany and leave in their thousands. An attempt is made to speed up the scheme for providing a national home for the Jews in Palestine. The quickening of immigration alarms the Arabs—the recrudescence of the disturbances of a few years back was almost inevitable. The outcome is uncertain. The worst may be over; or may yet be to come. So much depends upon the resource and tactfulness of the men on the spot. So far they seem to have managed well in difficult circumstances; if the Arab leaders can be brought to the council table further bloodshed may be avoided.

CUBA'S PROBLEMS

Cuba has been remarkably quiet since the Hotel Nacional carnage and the mad blood-lust that followed. The fairly long interlude seems, however, to have contributed little to the achievement of ordered government and the collapse of the Grau San Martin regime seems imminent, all essential services having been brought to a standstill by a general strike, which the government is helpless to meet or to minimise. The weakness, of course, is the dependence upon the support of the student and ABC organisations, both of which are ready to criticise but offer little constructive assistance. If Dr. Cespedes agrees to return; he will meet with very similar difficulties, although his Ministers and advisers will probably be more able than those Dr. Grau San Martin has been able to gather around him. Very reluctantly the observer begins to wonder whether the Machado method of maintaining law and order by forceful methods was not the only safe one in Cuban circumstances.

ONE LESS NUISANCE

A San Diego youth was sentenced to a year in gaol the other day for confessing to a murder which he had not committed. San Diego had a murder which drew a lot of public attention. This youth, desiring a taste of notoriety, went to the police and confessed. In a short time the police proved that he did not know what he was talking about; but instead of turning him loose they charged him with obstructing justice, and now he will have a year in which to meditate on his folly. Here is a stop which might profitably be followed in all such cases. Unsolved murders frequently bring "confessions" from notoriety-seekers, and they are a tremendous nuisance to the authorities. It is safe to suppose that the nuisance would be considerably abated if a good stiff sentence were the price.

LAY THIS INFLATION BOGY

THERE ARE GOODS IN PLenty IN THE WORLD.

By PETER BROWN

THE world is as right as rain. If it only knew it.

The necessities and comforts of life are available in abundance. But we refuse to make full use of them. Because a mystery is made of money, which is nothing but the means of distributing all the good things.

Contrast this contrivance with the common sense that prevails ordinarily in everyday matters.

The channel through which goods pass to the consumer is currency, and it is simply common sense that this channel should be widened as required. The amount of currency must be capable of coping with the quantity of goods available for passing on.

Gold has nothing whatever to do with our ability to produce wheat and consume it, to make and use a motor-car.

As a monetary medium, the inert yellow metal that hypnotises the "economists" is a pitiable makeshift, resorted to on the unwarrantable assumption that there is no such thing as good faith.

Gold is intended to serve as: (1) The international standard of value and counter of exchange; (2) The "anchor" for currency, i.e., each ounce of gold carries a definite amount of currency.

NOTES WOULD DO AS WELL.

Now (assuming both of those functions to be legitimate) let us suppose for a moment that, at a given time, the nations' stocks of gold had been replaced by international monetary notes—each note representing one or more ounces of gold.

The passing to and fro of these notes would have served exactly the same purposes as the transfer of actual gold. In addition, this procedure would have had the enormous advantage that, as world requirements expanded, the number of international "gold notes" could have been increased accordingly. Always by common agreement—no possibility of any country monkeying about on its own. And as each international note would have carried a definite amount of currency, the amounts of the national currencies would have been increased as well and rendered capable of dealing with the growing needs of domestic trade.

That procedure is, in principle, practicable to-day—seeing that, when all is said and done, all currencies are still ruled by gold. A simple operation will restore prosperity—Increase the amounts of all currencies in the same proportion, multiply them all by the same number. Allocate half of each resulting multiple to the nation as currency, and half as international notes.

As soon as sufficient money is provided, it will be possible to pass on the goods that are hung up. But when expansion of currency is proposed, the "economists" throw up their hands in horror. Try to make our flesh creep with a bogey they have dubbed "inflation."

A representative "economist" made this statement recently: "If the amount of currency is doubled the manufacturers, knowing this, will immediately double their prices."

Why? Their production costs have not gone up overnight. Increased prices would be sheer profiteering, and would easily be checked.

The truth is that if additional currency is issued rationally and applied rationally, it will be difficult to profiteer. Industry and trade (and the banks) will certainly make greater profits, but the extra profits must come in the main from increased turnover. Prices will rise only when the demand catches up with and exceeds the supply—and there is a good deal of leeway to make up in this direction.

This is the way to put it:—If the amount of currency is doubled and used to widen the basis of normal purchasing power, the manufacturers already operating on a margin of profit will be able to double their profits out of a doubled turnover. Those now said to be producing at a loss will also be put well on their feet. As an example, take the wheat-growers of the West, for whom the City shows such altruistic concern.—If the growers could sell their present surplus (i.e., wheat produced but without a market) at the same price as the wheat they do manage to dispose of, their affairs would immediately become profitable.

Let us define inflation.

Is it the issue of currency beyond a certain "backing" of gold? It is nothing of the kind. That is the bugaboo "inflation" of the "economists."

Goods are produced. The idea is to use them. To exchange them. The means of exchanging goods is money. (Barter is for barbarians.) To exchange a certain quantity of goods, a certain amount of money is necessary. To exchange double that quantity of goods double the amount of money is needed. And no more.

INFLATION IS THE ISSUE OF CURRENCY BEYOND THE AMOUNT NECESSARY TO EXCHANGE ALL THE GOODS AVAILABLE.

Saturation point in the issue of currency is reached when further issues fail to increase the turnover of goods—when (after every precaution against profiteering has been taken) further issues merely cause a corresponding rise in prices.

As to the "backing" for currency. It is goods that are to be exchanged. Goods are the backing.

President Roosevelt wants "the dollar to have the same value a generation hence." The only way to maintain the prices of goods at the same level is to issue sufficient currency to exchange all the goods produced. Plenty of goods and too little money, and prices fall. Too much money and too little goods and prices rise.

"Economics"? It is elementary arithmetic. Ask any schoolboy to check this over:—

The Very Idea!

LET'S JOIN THE NAVY

By Edward "Columbus" Kelly.

SUCCESS of Navy Day
Last Saturday has prompted the query "Why are British Naval ships never featured in films?"

Practically every picture from America contrives to introduce either a warship, or an airship, or some other ship of the ilk.

The reason is that that the British Navy doesn't have half the fun the American gobs do. British sailors have to be on duty at the right time; they are not allowed to throw pies at the Admiral; they are tied up completely with red tape, hawsers, lanyards and other yarns.

The American Navy, as every film-goer has seen, enjoys a wonderful time. To start with they wear hats that fit all the girls they meet. When they go ashore no one bothers if they don't come back at the correct hour. If the captain makes a fuss at their being four or five days late, they just say, "Aw, cap'n, give us a break," and everything is O.K.

As far as we can judge from films, almost every American battleship has several of the most attractive female film stars among its crew. Besides having a wife in every port, the American sailor has two or three on board as well, thus competing with Solomon for the title of Wise Guy. These girls can usually say very little beyond "Aw g'wan!", "Say, big boy," and also (after reaching port and meeting some of the other wives), "But I don't understand."

These film stars cause great fun on board because they will not stay put. They pop out of their hiding places just as the captain is passing by. They cause the sailors to forget their duties as far as to leave a bucket of white-wash at the bottom of the ladder down which the visiting admiral is about to walk. They get in the kitchen and put mustard and pepper in the chief officer's ice cream just when he happens to be also entertaining a hidden lady friend.

Perhaps the next Disarmament Conference can be persuaded to save the British film industry by either (a) making America disarm, thus reducing unfair competition, or (b) allowing some of the prettiest film stars to join the British Navy.

TEE-TIME

We met a pal of ours at the Kowloon Golf Club last Saturday just as he came in to the 19th Hole from his first game.

"What was your score?" asked another member.

"Seventy-two," replied the novice.

"Seventy-two? That's jolly good."

"Yeah, not too bad," replied our pal, oh pal, oh pal, "but I'm hoping to do better at the second hole."

MIDNIGHT FOLLIES

She: "A pretty time of night for you to come home!"

Us: "A pretty time of night for you to be awake!"

She: "I stayed awake for the last four hours waiting for you to come home."

Us: "And I have been keeping myself awake for the last four hours at the K.C.C. waiting for you to go to sleep."

INTO THE BREECHES

Of course, you know that to distinguish the lady wearing pants from her male companion, it is only necessary to observe which one is listening.

Available: 6 oranges and 6 pence—price 1d. each; 12 oranges and 6 pence—price 1/2d. each (if, as the "economists" suggest, 1d. each is still charged, half of the oranges will be wasted); 6 oranges and 12 pence—price 2d. each. But, 12 oranges and 12 pence—price 1d. each, again.

MORE MONEY—MORE WORK.

Now, let us visualise the effect of currency expansion in present conditions. Say additional currency is issued and used for paying full wages to unemployed workers in return for work of public utility. What is the result? These workers are able to buy more goods. The public in general.

PERFORMING RIGHTS SOCIETY

BRANCH OPENED IN HONGKONG

Recent rumours regarding the proposed establishment of a branch of the Performing Rights Society in Hongkong have crystallised with the arrival of Mr. F. Cason Bonardel, and the registration of the English Society under the local Companies Ordinance.

Ramifications of the Society are so wide that they will cover all performances at local Cinemas, Cabarets, Dance Halls, Hotels, and the broadcasting station.

Official Statement.

The following statement was issued to the Press by the Society yesterday afternoon:

During last week The Performing Rights Society Ltd., which is incorporated in England, was locally registered as a Company, under the Companies Ordinance, and intends to commence activities at the end of the present year.

Monsieur Cason Bonardel, of Shanghai, has been appointed the Agent and representative of the Cartel des Societes d'Auteurs, whose head office is in Paris, and this Agency extends to Hongkong, Shanghai, Macao and Manchuria.

The Cartel is really an affiliation of the five chief Performing Rights Societies of Europe, including the Societe des Auteurs, Compositeurs et Editeurs de Musique, Paris, the Societa Italiana degli Autori ed Editori, Rome, the Genossenschaft zur Verwertung Musikalischer Aufnahmerechte, Berlin, the Gesellschaft der Autoren Komponisten und Musikverleger, Vienna, and the Performing Rights Society Ltd. of London.

In Hongkong however, the Performing Rights Society will function by authority of the Cartel, but this Society being a British organisation, its aims and objects will be more easily explicable.

Formation of Society.

The circumstances which led to the Society's formation were as follows:

Under the British Copyright Act, 1911, which, by proclamation of the then Governor in Council, was extended to this Colony on June 28, 1912, performing right is established as one of the constituent parts of copyright, and the owner of the copyright in a musical work, has, under that Act, the sole right of performing or authorising the performance of the work in public. The Act extends to all classes of musical works without distinction, and whilst it is generally appreciated that the consent of the composer, author or owner of the copyright is necessary before such works as operas or plays are performed in public, it is not always realised that such consent is also necessary in the case of shorter works, such as sonatas, instrumental suites, songs, dance numbers, etc.

Most civilised countries have enacted legislation similar to the British Copyright Act, and have either joined the International Copyright Convention or concluded copyright treaties with other countries whereby each country extends the same protection in its own territory to the works of foreigners as it does to the works of its own nationals.

Rights of Composers.

The rights of copyright owners having thus been established, it became necessary to provide the means whereby they might effectively protect their performing rights and obtain the benefits to which they were entitled. This presented no difficulty in the case of large works, where the copyright owner could obtain his remuneration direct; but in the case of shorter works as above described, which were performed publicly thousands of times daily at all sorts of entertainments throughout the country, some special method had to be devised. In practice it would be intolerably troublesome, if not wholly impracticable, for persons who desired permission to perform copyright music in public to communicate separately with every copyright owner of every piece of music on each occasion, and it would be impossible for individual copyright owners to deal with such applications.

The problem was solved by the formation, in 1914, of the Performing Rights Society. Many British composers, authors, arrangers and publishers of copyright musical works joined the Society, and vested in it the control of the public performing right in such works. Since that time its membership has continuously increased, and it now represents practically all well-known British composers, authors and publishers.

A similar Society was formed in France by French composers and copyright owners nearly eighty years ago, and during the last twenty years organisations administered on similar lines have been established in practically every other civilised country, including the United States of America,

CORRESPONDENCE

A Deserving Cause.

(To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.)

Sir,—An effort is being made to assist the widow and the four young children of the late S.M.S. W. Chappell, R.A.P.C., who died on 13-10-33, while being invalided from the Colony to the United Kingdom per the s.s. Naldera.

The late Warrant Officer had completed nearly eighteen years military service and, during the eighteen months he had served in Hongkong, had become a well known and popular member of the local garrison by his cheery manner and ever ready desire to help in a good cause.

His death was not directly attributable to military service and the issue of pension is, therefore, problematical.

A Whist Drive and Dance respectively will be held in the Garrison Lecture Hall on 17-11-33 and 6-12-33. The whole of the proceeds will be devoted to a fund in aid of the widow and children.

The Committee will greatly appreciate any offering of money or kind addressed to the "Chappell Fund", c/o The Command Paymaster, Headquarters, China Command, Hongkong.

Acknowledgment will be made through the local press.

It is recognised that many calls are generally answered by the people of this Colony, but it is urged in favour of this appeal, that few, if any, warrant greater support.

H. WARMAN,
Hon. Secretary,
Aid Committee.

Germany, Austria, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Switzerland, Roumania, Brazil, Portugal, Norway and Finland. The Societies of those countries have become affiliated to the British Society, and have transferred to it the right to licence the public performances in British territory of the copyright musical works of their respective members and to restrain unauthorised performances thereof.

Objects of Licences.

The Society is thus able to grant to those concerned with public performances of copyright music a comprehensive licence which covers not only the works of its own members, but also those of members of the affiliated Societies, numbering approximately 26,000 members and about two million works. The Society's licence helps those responsible for public performances of music to comply with the provisions of the Copyright Acts, and to avoid penalties for infringements, by giving them a general permission covering the public performance of any of the works which the Society controls.

The Society is protective of those who hold its licence, but it has to assert the rights of its members against persons who make unauthorised use of their music. Therefore, by its Agents and correspondence, it endeavours to acquaint all those responsible for public musical entertainments with their legal liabilities, its purpose being to leave no such person in a position to plead that "he did not know" that the music he performed was protected by the Copyright Law. There is, however, no legal obligation on the Society to take such steps, for knowledge that there is copyright in music is presumed, and the onus is on those concerned in the public performance of copyright music to obtain the permission of the owner of the performing right.

Reproduction Banned.

Further, the possession of a printed copy of a copyright musical work, or of a gramophone record or other contrivance capable of reproducing such work audibly, does not imply or convey to the holder or owner thereof any right to perform or to authorise the performance of the work in public, irrespective of whether such printed copy, record, etc., is received as a gift or on loan, or acquired by purchase or otherwise.

The offices of the Society are, for the time being, situated at St. George's Building, 2nd floor, and by the beginning of the year all the proprietors or licensees of premises where music is publicly performed, or those who are known to promote musical entertainment of any kind, will be deemed to have been duly warned that they will no longer be allowed to perform publicly the works of any of the members of the Society, or the affiliated Societies, without the permission of the Society.

The period of grace allowed until the end of the year, has been decided upon in view of the fact that the enforcement of the composers and publishers rights is new to the Far East, and also to give those persons or organisations an opportunity of making arrangements to obtain the Society's licence.

M. W. LO SURPRISES CHAMPION

number of points with a delicate drop shot.

"M.K." STEPS INTO BREACH. Only one set of doubles was played. Here it fell to M. K. Lo to fill the breach at the last minute, and in view of the fact that he was playing with a borrowed racket and shoes, his display was all the more creditable.

Partnering Hsu, M. K. Lo beat Luk Ding-cheong and Wong Sui-wing 6-4.

In this set, Hsu's service and overhead were seen at their best, although the South China pair played with rare pluck, the result was never in doubt. It was good entertaining tennis with a series of rapid exchanges.

THE ONE-ARMED CHAMPIONSHIP

Most of them are ex-Servicemen, and Sir Ian Hamilton presented a cup to be competed for on handicap terms. Sir Ian followed the play in the afternoon.

A fine score was returned by the winner, W. R. Thomson, of Eastwood Club, Glasgow. Mr. Thomson has both his arms, but one of them was injured in the war and he cannot swing a club with it. A powerful hitter, he won the monthly medal competition at the Royal Golf Club recently with the scratch score of 76, and his handicap was then reduced from 11 to 8.

A BIRDIE.

He was hitting a long ball at Barnston and, but for three putts which he had on several greens, he might easily have broken 80. As it was, his 82 was the result of a great inward half of 30 which included a birdie 3 at the last hole.

J. A. P. Renwick, of Hawick, who lost his arm near Ypres in 1918, re-joined the 85. Renwick is a most polished golfer and has remarkable strength in his left arm. He swings smoothly, hits the ball as far off the tee as any normal low-handicap player would, and puts with unerring accuracy.

A. L. Groundrill, a well-known one-armed billiards player, took 113. Douglas Smith, who has a handicap of six at Oban, required two strokes more than Thomson, but he was still within challenging distance with a score of 84.

It is my firm opinion that it is easier for a one-armed golfer to master the game than for a two-handed player, states D. J. Morgan, the well-known one-armed golfer.

The two-armed golfer is taught to grip his clubs in many different ways during his long years of golfing. The instruction necessary for a one-armed golfer will not cover half a sheet of notepaper. He has only one arm and one grip to concentrate on.

The one-armed player grips his club as he would a hammer—he swings it round naturally with his body. This gives a perfect swing which the majority of two-armed golfers have never perfected.

One important factor a one-armed golfer has to teach himself. He has to put slightly more weight on the foot opposite to the arm he is playing with. This will give him his balance.

Hockey Fixtures and Teams

At King's Park in a scrappy friendly match yesterday the South Wales Borderers' second eleven defeated the Hongkong Hockey Club second eleven by four goals to one.

The Club fielded only nine men in the first half, during which the Borderers netted three goals.

In the second half the Club had an extra player in A. R. Botelho and they scored through S. E. Hill while the soldiers added one more.

MATCH CANCELLED.

The friendly match between the Radio Sports Club and the R.A.S.C. arranged to take place yesterday at Caroline Hill, was cancelled.

POWERFUL INTERPORT CRICKET XI

T. A. Pearce and P. V. Williams there are four batsmen who should be good enough any day of this week to lay the foundation of a solid score.

And following them are Harry Owen-Hughes, Hamilton, Garthwaite and Redmond all of whom are potential run-makers.

Whilst giving Shanghai full credit for a first rate attack, there seems to be no reason why, given a normal wicket, Hongkong should be dismissed for less than 250 in any innings.

NO BETTER CHOICE.

The cares of captaincy have been entrusted to Owen-Hughes, a time-honoured Interporter and one whose knowledge of the game is second to none in local cricket circles.

In this respect then Hongkong need entertain no fears. In addition to his astuteness in tactics and his ability to get the most out of his colleagues, Owen-Hughes is a good batsman, an excellent change bowler and a splendid field. No better choice could have been made.

THE NETHERLANDS INDUSTRIES FAIR

RESULT OF AUTUMN EXHIBITION

In the 29th Royal Netherlands Industries Fair held at Utrecht, the participants numbered 1,109 (1,053 in the autumn-fair of 1932), while the visitors considerably exceeded the numbers of last year.

Although there was a general demand for cheaper goods, participants with articles of luxury also booked good returns. The number of orders was quite satisfactory and it was a pleasant surprise the buyers no longer restricted themselves to small orders, as at former fairs, but seemed inclined to secure themselves at long date and for larger quantities. Consequently there was a slight general rise in prices.

Good business was also done by foreign participants, particularly by the Italian section, that showed an extensive, collective exhibit of Italian produce.

The Dutch Colonial Department attracted much attention, especially on account of the way in which interest was aroused for rice, sago and tapioca.

Implements and Machinery for Dairy-industry gave a good idea of the new inventions exhibited by home and foreign makers.

The favourable result of this autumn-fair caused a great many exhibitors to book space for the 1934 Spring Fair, which will be held from March 13th till 22nd inclusive.

SOONG'S STATEMENT

REAL REASON FOR DECISION STILL UNDISCLOSED

Shanghai, Oct. 30. Interviewed to-day, Mr. T. V. Soong refused to disclose the real reason for his resignation, though he admitted it was not for health reasons. He declared he had long wished to resign but withheld from so doing because a suitable successor could not be found, which would seriously affect Government credit. Now that Dr. H. H. Kung had accepted the post, he felt safe in resigning, but he would give every assistance to Dr. Kung.

Mr. Soong said he was still considering the Government request that he remain on the standing committee of the National Economic Commission, but had as yet come to no decision.

Mr. Soong concluded by declaring that he was in the best health and did not need recuperation. He would remain in Shanghai. He expressed gratitude to the public who had wired to the Government urging him to remain in office.

POWERFUL INTERPORT CRICKET TEAM SELECTED

PROBLEM OF THE ATTACK

SOUND RATHER THAN BRILLIANT

OWEN-HUGHES'S HONOUR

The Hongkong Interport cricket team to oppose Shanghai next week has been chosen, and although its composition is bound to evoke a certain amount of criticism, it must be said of the selectors that they have got together, at least on paper, a combination capable of providing itself good enough to beat the visitors.

The selected eleven is:

H. Owen-Hughes (H.K.C.C.)

Capt. G. S. Dunkley (H.K.C.C.)

T. M. L. Redmond (H.K.C.C.)

Capt. P. A. V. Williams

(Army)

A. R. Minu (I.R.C.)

T. A. Pearce (H.K.C.C.)

E. R. Duckitt (H.K.C.C.)

E. C. Fincher (K.C.C.)

F. Goodwin (K.C.C.)

Lieut. A. C. Hamilton

(Army)

Lieut. G. C. Garthwaite

(Army)

CHIEF CONCERN.

The chief concern of the selectors was obviously that of attack. There has probably never been a representative team chosen without this department causing the greatest worry and thought.

The task in this case had not been lightened by the trial matches. In addition to Garthwaite, Hamilton, Minu, Goodwin and Redmond, there was Frank Pereira and Gordon Burnett whose claims for inclusion were equally as strong.

Current form has shown that there is so little to choose between these players that it was just a toss up as to whom would be the lucky ones.

Minu more or less picked himself for he is bowling extra-ordinarily well just now and on a wicket which offers the slightest assistance might well run through the Shanghai team. Garthwaite and Hamilton had sound batting to support their claims, and it therefore appears to have narrowed down to Goodwin, Redmond, or Burnett and Pereira for the other two places.

BATTING STRENGTH.

Perhaps the attacks as it stands does lack variety; perhaps it even lacks an opening combination to indulge successfully in "shock" tactics on a suitable wicket. Nevertheless the bowlers selected are reliable, and if blessed with that intangible gift known as inspiration, may well prove Shanghai's undoing and pave the way for a Hongkong victory.

Of the batting strength there can be no question.

MALFROY BEATS PERRY

ASTONISHING DEFEAT IN NEW ZEALAND TENNIS TEST

Dunedin, New Zealand, Oct. 25.
There was a surprising upset of form in lawn tennis here to-day when Fred Perry, who did so much to win the Davis Cup for England and who won the American singles championship, was beaten two sets to love by the New Zealander, Malfroy. The score was 6-4, 6-4.

The other matches to-day all resulted in victories for the English touring team.
Perry, partnered by F.H.D. Wilde, avenged his defeat in the singles by narrowly defeating Malfroy, and Wilson in a doubles match, the score being 6-7, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.
H.G.N. Lee (H.K.C.C.) beat Wilson (New Zealand) 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 and Wilde beat Pearce, of New Zealand 6-2, 6-4.—Reuter.

Miss Molly Gourlay (Britain) defeated the South African woman champion, Miss Burwell by 4 and three.
Miss Fishwick, Miss Plumpton and Miss Pentony all won their matches by comfortable margins.—Reuter.

Famous Amateur Players

Corinthians May Move
Playing Pitch

London.
There has been some talk of the famous English amateur football club, the Corinthians F. C., giving up their playing pitch at the Crystal Palace.

The rumour seems to have emanated from the fact that the Corinthians have resigned from the Football Association cup competition owing to the failure of the F. A. to exempt them from the qualifying rounds.

It is stated that it was their share of the F. A. Cup gates that enabled the Corinthians to lease the famous ground inside the Crystal Palace.

In the absence of Sir Henry Buckland, the manager of the Crystal Palace, his private secretary said that the management was on the friendliest of terms with the Corinthians and the only question was the matter of getting attractive opponents for them.

"Naturally they can please themselves where they play, but we shall always be pleased to have them with us," he said.

No definite statement has been made by the Club itself, but the fact that at least two matches have been arranged to take place on the old Cup final enclosure seems to give the lie to the rumour.

The Corinthians will play Oxford University on November 18, and Cambridge University on December 2, and if they can arrange other attractive matches they will be staged at the Crystal Palace.

The game between the Corinthians and Queen's Park, the famous Scottish amateur team, will probably be resumed this season, and the first game has been provisionally fixed for January 2, at Glasgow.—Reuter.

No More Flat Racing At Kwanti

DECISION MADE BY COMMITTEE

There will be no public race meetings of the Fanling Hunt and Race Club this winter owing to adverse financial returns.

The Committee have decided to confine their activities to symphonias, which will include hurdling and steeplechasing, but will eliminate flat races.

Warning of the impending financial disaster which might result from continuing the public race meetings has been found in the falling cash sweeps and plummet returns at Happy Valley and also at Macao.

It is this consideration as much as anything which has actuated the committee's decision.

It has also to be observed that this will eliminate the "E" Class ponies from competing at Fanling; while a vague suggestion has been made that this class of pony is to be withdrawn from local racing by the Hongkong Jockey Club.

SHARKEY NOT FINISHED

Seeks Fight With Max Baer

Newton, Mass., Oct. 25.
Jack Sharkey, former world heavyweight champion, revealed he is not yet through with the fight game, despite the rude jolting he received at the hands of King Levinsky and Tommy Loughran in his comeback attempt.

He said his last two bouts have put him in such condition that he wants more action.

"I was very much pleased with my showing against Loughran," he said. "I thought I won the bout easily. In the last three rounds I was as strong as ever I was in my career, and that convinced me that I am far from being a has-been."

He revealed he has tentative matches in Boston and Miami, Florida.

Sharkey said he wants a bout with Max Baer, the youthful California heavy who was thrashed into the front rank of contenders as a result of a technical knockout victory over Max Schmeling of Germany, former world champion.

"I could give him (Baer) a boxing lesson," Sharkey said.

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

in out—?" whispered Napoleon, and received another punch.

In three minutes, he was allowed to speak.

"Well, I suppose your hush tactics are the correct thing," he murmured, "but sometimes I'm just mad about big noise. He's gone now, anyway. Who do you suppose he was?"

"Why do you suppose?" replied Leonard.

"Haven't the ghost?" said Napoleon. "Have you?"

"Yes, I've a hunch—but I'm not certain."

"Let's hear your guess. My hat—not old Griddle?"

"Your tone has an unconvincing ring, dear lad. Let's hear who you think it might have been besides old Griddle?"

"I'd rather not say for the moment, if you don't mind. I've a reason. And, in any case, I may be wrong. I'll set Jim, our hotel foot-hound on the track to-morrow morning early, and maybe he'll identify the prints. Meanwhile, I'm rather interested to know what's behind us."

"Darling!" protested Napoleon, with a gulp. "Must you?"

"I thought the cave ended here," Leonard went on, "but it doesn't seem to." He turned, brought his flash-lamp into action again, and played it on the rocks. "By Jove!" he exclaimed. "Look there—that twist. You'd take it for a blind alley, but it's not!"

He slipped forward, and began to edge his way between two rocks.

"Wait a bit, wait a bit," muttered Napoleon. "Damn it all, the blessed boat couldn't have squeezed itself through there."

"I'm not looking for the boat now," answered Leonard. "I'm looking for something else."

"Joy," whispered Napoleon, and followed.

There was just room to move sideways through the narrow passageway. Beyond, the space widened, and an inner cave was revealed. It was considerably smaller than the outer cave, the roof was lower, and the floor more irregular.

Leonard flashed his light around. The place was empty.

"Cheerful hole, isn't it?" commented Napoleon. "If anybody was in the outer cave and wanted to bottle us up in here, it would be easy."

"Why should anyone want to bottle us up in here?" enquired Leonard.

"I don't know. I just said it would be easy if they did want to. By the way—what's that 'something else' you're looking for?"

"Can't you guess?" asked Leonard.

"I can, but I don't want to. I suppose it's that johnie who was murdered, and who has disappeared?"

"Quite right. When I was searching before, I didn't strike this spot."

"And were possibly spared a gruesome sight."

"I wonder! But it would have to be a pretty hefty fellow to carry such a load all the way from the foot of the gap."

"And to carry the load away again afterwards," added Napoleon. "Because, you note, the aforementioned load is not here."

"Yes, I'm quite aware of that. Truelove—I've eyes, as well you. The question is, where has the load been carried away to?"

"Assuming it was ever carried here at all. Well, we don't know. We're knocking our heads against a brick wall. Does it occur to you that the beds at the Mermidon Hotel are wonderfully comfortable, and that—oh, Lord. Now what is it?"

Leonard was staring at a sharp knob of rock that protruded from the wall near the passage.

"Hallo—I have found something," he murmured, bending forward.

"Cheers! What is it?"

"This."

He stretched out his hand, and took something of the pointed projection. Napoleon advanced curiously, and regarded the find.

"Bit of dark blue serge, isn't it?" he said.

"Yes," nodded Leonard. "Someone's coat or sleeve barged against that point, and left a portion of it there. What sort of a suit do you think this is a part of?"

"It might be a lounge suit, or a sea merchant's uniform."

"The seaman's uniform, for instance, to which this was once attached?"

He took from his pocket the gold button which he had found upon the cliff top.

"Ah," replied Napoleon, reflectively. "That's the button of the chap who's supposed to have pushed our mysterious stranger over the cliff, isn't it? Reconstructing the gruesome episodes, someone pushes the poor chap over, leaving a button behind. That same someone conveys the corpse to this cave, leaving a bit of his coat behind. It's a sort of game of paper-chase. Then the someone-carries the corpse off again, and when we got to the next spot we'll discover that he's left a collar or a boot behind! The heavier the load grows, the more ballast the carrier sheds."

"But has it occurred to you," interposed Leonard, "that possibly our 'someone' never had to carry a load at all—that his victim wasn't dead?"

"You know, old chap," observed Napoleon Truelove, after absorbing this suggestion, "your ideas are just too sweet for anything."

MANSLAUGHTER CASE.

KOWLOON HEARING FURTHER ADJOURNED

Lower Court proceedings were further adjourned before Mr. Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday afternoon when two men, Tsan Wu-leaf and Liu Chun, appeared on a charge of manslaughter as a result of a street fight in the Hungnam district on September 20.

It is alleged that on the night in question the second accused, who lives in Ha Hung Street, alleged he saw a man stealing two roots from a garden nearby. He raised the alarm and several men set upon the alleged culprit. Four men made the attack, and it is alleged that the first and second defendants were two of them. The first defendant was alleged to have used an iron drill while the second used his fists in the assault.

Mr. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, is prosecuting for the Crown, while Mr. P. H. Sin is appearing for the defence. The hearing was adjourned to to-day.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Contract bridge is a partnership game, and therefore, to play it successfully, it is necessary to learn a bidding system. Naturally, the most enjoyment will be derived from a system that can be understood by the greater majority of players.

This you will find true of the one over one system, as it employs only natural card inferences. A brief summary of the system and some of the finer tactics that are employed is given in to-day's article.

A player's skill at contract bidding depends upon his ability to classify correctly the various bids. Therefore, before making a bid, try to picture the message it will convey to partner and particularly whether or not it will force or invite him to continue the bidding. A brief summary of the one over one system is as follows:

First and second hand original bids are made with strong hands and show not only strength in high cards, but also a definite re-bid.

Third hand may open very light—it is the ideal position to employ a psychic bid.

A fourth hand original bid is made with less strength than that required to make an original first or second hand bid.

An original bid of one no trump shows at least three, and probably four, suits stopped. It further shows a hand that will probably gain an extra trick by being led up to rather than through. It does not deny a biddable four-card suit. It is a constructive bid and invites partner to continue bidding.

An original bid of one of a suit shows a hand that is willing to become the dummy if the hand is to be played at no trump, and first or second hands it is a constructive bid inviting partner to keep the bidding open with very little strength.

An original bid of two no trump shows all four suits stopped and guarantees partner a five card suit as good as the A J K with which to work. It is a forcing bid.

An original bid of two of a suit shows a hand of tremendous strength and guarantees game even though partner's hand is trickless. It further shows a hand that can become the dummy, especially if played at a no trump contract.

It is a forcing bid and places an obligation on both partners to continue bidding until the final declaration is a game-going contract.

An original bid of three no trump shows a hand top-heavy with high card tricks. Rather than asking for information from partner, it endeavours to give partner a complete picture of the hand. However, it is not a forcing bid.

An original bid of three of a suit shows a hand of tremendous strength and guarantees game even though partner's hand is trickless. It further shows a hand that wants to be the declarer and has no desire to play the hand at no trump. It is a forcing bid, making partner to show an ace if he holds one, in the hope that a slam may be reached.

An original bid of four or five of a suit is made with a hand containing a long trump suit and no defensive strength. It is a pre-emptive bid and is made solely to shut out the opponents, but it must be remembered that it also shuts partner out. It is a much abused bid and care should be taken not to make this bid too frequently.

What to do when the opponents have opened the bidding is always a problem with the beginner at contract, and this will be explained in to-morrow's article.

EVANGELISTIC WORK IN TERRITORIES.

JOINT MEETING OF CHINESE AND FOREIGN CHURCHES

A joint meeting of the Chinese and Foreign Churches interested in the evangelistic work in the New Territories was held on Saturday in Yuen Long church. Representatives were present from almost all the congregations of the New Territories, not excepting those so distant as Cheung Chau and Lau Tau, also from the Union Churches in Hongkong and Kowloon. The chair was taken by the Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling, who was recently appointed by the Sixth District of the Kwangtung Synod of the Church of Christ in China, Chairman of the Committee in charge of work in the New Territories.

An address was given by Mr. Sz To-chung, Chairman of the Sixth District, and the three new workers were cordially welcomed. Miss Hoh Sun-wing had been appointed for work among women, particularly by means of literature, while Miss Bruckman of the London Missionary Society and Mr. Li Kwok-hung are to be engaged in evangelistic work. Rev. E. C. Powell and Rev. Li Shu-kwai spoke briefly on behalf of the Union and Chinese churches respectively. Musical items were provided by the Girls' School and the Ping Shan Musical Society, and refreshments were served at the close.

LATE MR. M. B. YUNG.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL
YESTERDAY.

The funeral of the late Mr. Morrison B. Yung, late Chairman of the Asia Coal and Briquetting Co., Ltd., whose death occurred last month at Tientsin, was held yesterday following the arrival of the remains from Tientsin. Owing to the short notice given, there was not the large gathering of friends expected, but relatives were represented at the obsequies which were held at the Chinese Christian Cemetery at Pokfulam. A memorial service was held in the chapel prior to the interment of the remains in the family grave. The Rev. K. Y. Lee, Pastor of St. Stephen's Church, officiated at both services.

Present were Mr. Mak Wai (nephew), Mrs. V. Chan, Mrs. Walter Ng and Miss L. Lal (aunt-in-law), Mr. Walter Ng, Mr. M. Lai, Mr. H. S. Yung, Mrs. George Ng, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ng Quinn, Mrs. S. Ng Quinn, Lt. Col. G. K. Hall Brutton, Mr. and Mrs. Y. K. Chow, Mr. Li Chor-chi, Mrs. Cheng and Miss Cheng, and others. In addition to those from relatives, flowers were sent by Hon. Sir Shouson Chow, Mrs. Liang Shi-ye, Mr. and Mrs. Quo Tai-chi, Lt. Col. G. K. Brutton Hall, Dr. and Mrs. Y. K. Chow, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fong, Dr. Li Shufan, Mr. Martin Keller, Mr. Li Chor-chi and family, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Kirk, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Woo, Miss Woo, the Asia Coal and Briquetting Co., and others.

JEWISH PROFESSOR'S OPINION

London, Oct. 30.
"The present demonstrations in Palestine are not justified," declared Professor Neville Laski, addressing a conference for the relief of German Jews. The conference was held in London and was attended by delegates from 45 nations. The Government of Palestine, said Prof. Laski, erred on the side of over-caution in its immigration policy. The Arab population had largely increased, especially in the districts adjoining Jewish districts. Prof. Laski hoped that the time was approaching when Palestine would be a common country for both races.—Reuter.

COMMODITY DOLLAR PLAN OVER FIRST HURDLE

Currency Pact With Britain Persistently Rumoured

ROOSEVELT FREE TO ACT

ADMINISTRATION SPLIT AVERTED

THEORISTS TO BE GIVEN CHANCE

WASHINGTON, OCT. 30.
AMID THE CONFUSION THAT HAS DEVELOPED FROM THE PRESIDENT'S GOLD PLAN AND HIS PLUMMING FOR THE "COMMODITY DOLLAR" EXPERIMENT, EMERGES PERSISTENT REPORTS THAT A TRUCE BETWEEN BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES HAS BEEN ARRANGED TO PREVENT A CURRENCY WAR.

President Roosevelt has won the immediate battle among his close advisers. That a grave split threatened at one time is shown by an announcement that the opponents of the gold campaign have agreed to suspend criticism for the time being.

Wall Street is still strongly antagonistic, as far as can be gathered, and the Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has been in consultation with the President.

The general impression is that if President Roosevelt wins through, it means an end to the gold standard on the old basis of working.

SILVER DEMANDS RENEWED

The story of a currency truce is carried in the Chicago Tribune, which says that it was concluded between Britain and the United States to-night.

The truce is said to have followed a long conference at the Treasury between Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, Economic Adviser to the British Government, who is in chases abroad on Wednesday at latest.

The Federal Reserve Board held two long sessions to-day. President Roosevelt received Mr. Harrison, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, this evening.

TENTATIVE TRUCE.

The Chicago Tribune's Washington correspondent later communicated a message to his paper declaring that "a secret Anglo-American currency truce" had been reached.

He says that after several hours of negotiations between Sir Frederick Leith-Ross and members of the Federal Reserve Board and the United States Treasury Department, a basis for a tentative agreement was reached.

He adds that the agreement provides for the pegging of the exchange value of the pound and the dollar in relation to each other, and says that this means a truce which will enable President Roosevelt to pursue his gold purchase scheme without upsetting British trade.

INTERNAL PACIFICATION.

Meanwhile, the President appears to have overcome for the most another serious obstacle, the threat of internal dissension.

It is stated that the majority of the so-called "Conservative Wing" of the Administration, irrespective of their personal views regarding the merits of the Commodity Dollar Plan, have now promised to keep silent until the advocates of the Plan have had an opportunity to prove their thesis.

If the experiment proves to be unworkable, President Roosevelt is prepared to try other expedients to raise domestic price levels gradually.—Reuter.

TARIFF DISPUTE

Paris, Oct. 31.

A surtax of one hundred per cent. ad valorem is to be imposed upon all imports from Brazil. The order is issued in retaliation for a similar tax imposed on French goods in Brazil.—Reuter.

SILVER SENATOR ON WARPATH

New York, Oct. 31.
Senator Pittman hails the gold purchase plan as pre-saging the permanent stabilisation of currencies and a return to the gold standard to a limited extent by all nations.

He says he has advised President Roosevelt to increase silver prices proportionately to the rise in gold prices.

"If the President does not do that, I shall introduce a Bill in the next session of Congress providing for the free coinage of American silver at a 16 to 1 ratio and it will be passed overwhelmingly."—Reuter.

the United States in connexion with the war debt negotiations, and Mr. Acheson, of the U.S. Treasury.

FIRST MOVE.

It had earlier been reported that the United States had made the first move for an understanding with Great Britain on the gold situation.

In order to further the quest, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross interrupted the debt talks to confer with Mr. Acheson, the Under-Secretary of the U.S. Treasury and Mr. Eugene Black, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

READY TO BEGIN.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt's "aides" are prepared for gold pur-

Mr. Yotaro Sugimura, former Vice Secretary of the League of Nations and Baron Tokugawa, Japanese Minister to Canada, who are on a tour of Manchuria and China. They were reported to be travelling to Hongkong on the President's ship, but their names did not appear in the passenger list. It is, however, believed that they intend to visit Hongkong and Canton.

TRADE UNIONS WIN OUT

THE PENNSYLVANIA STRIKE OVER

Washington, Oct. 30.
A virtual agreement has been reached in the "captive" mines (those in which all the products are absorbed by iron and steel companies) strike in Pennsylvania. An announcement of this happy culmination of a long dispute was made at the White House to-night, when it was stated that the employers have practically agreed to the check-off system, whereby trade union fees are deducted in advance from the men's wages.—Reuter.

PREMIER AND SUN FO MAKE CALL

Shanghai, Oct. 31.
Mr. Wang Ching Wei and Mr. Sun Fo arrived here this morning from Nanking. They immediately called on Mr. T. V. Soong at his residence, where a conference is being held to discuss Mr. T. V. Soong's position as member of the National Economic Council.—Central News.

CONSULATE MURDER

LIFE SENTENCE ON UKRAINIAN

STRANGE LWOW OUTRAGE

Warsaw, Oct. 30.
The trial of the Ukrainian student, Mikolaj Lemyk, arrested following the shooting at the office of the Soviet Consul at Lwow, concluded to-day.

Lemky was found guilty of the murder of an official of the Consulate, and was sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Lemky confessed that he was an agent of a Ukrainian terrorist organisation.

The outrage was a strange one in many ways.

Lemky appears to have entered the office, planning an attempt on the life of the Vice-Consul, to have shot one official dead and to have slightly wounded another, and then to have locked the doors and barred the windows of the premises, with himself inside certain to be captured.

Police summoned forced an entry through a window on the second floor and arrested Lemky.—Reuter.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt has appointed Mr. Joseph B. Keenan, of Cleveland, to be assistant attorney general in succession to Mr. Pat Malloy, resigned.

FRENCH CABINET POLICY

PLANNED ECONOMY ON NEW PROGRAMME

FISCAL LAW CHANGE

Paris, Oct. 30.

The new French Cabinet headed by M. Albert Sarraut held its first meeting to-day, when the declaration of policy to be presented to the Chamber was discussed.

It is learned that the Cabinet unanimously approved the draft of the declaration, which will be announced in the Chamber on Friday.

It is also learned that M. Sarraut will probably announce the early presentation of an ambitious scheme to assist in French economic recovery by utilising all the resources of the French Colonial Empire.

He will also announce the elaboration of a new plan of national work and the intention of effecting important changes in the present fiscal laws.—Reuter.

"ASIATIC PEACE" CONFERENCE

Gen. Araki's Reported Suggestion

Tokyo, Oct. 31.

It is learned on high authority that General Araki, the Japanese War Minister, has suggested to the Government a plan for a "Peace Conference for Asia" and recommending that those Asiatic nations which should be invited to participate should include China, Soviet Russia, Siam, India and Manchukuo.

The object of General Araki's suggestion is to forestall the second Washington Conference, which might precipitate a world crisis, according to the view of the Japanese military circles.

Mr. Hirota, the Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs, however, takes a different view. He is reported to have said that such a conference, if it involves European nations, would eventually lead to interference in Sino-Japanese affairs by European Powers.—Central News.

HSINKIANG GOVERNOR ARRESTED

Alleged Signature of Secret Treaty

Nanking, Oct. 31.

A surprise has been caused here by the sudden arrest of General Chin Shu-chen, formerly Civil Governor of Hsinking, who recently arrived in Nanking from Tientsin via Nanchang, where he had an interview with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek and made a report to him on the Hsinking situation.

According to official statements, Chin Shu-chen, when he was in office in Hsinking Province, secretly signed a treaty with a certain nation without the knowledge and approval of the Central Government.

Chin Shu-chen had been Civil Governor of Hsinking for almost five years until the beginning of this year when the first coup d'etat took place at Tientsin.—Central News.

Coolie Hurt in Jump To Escape Crash

A Shanghai Chinese named Tong Yau-ming received minor injuries when he jumped from a ledge on the old Hongkong and Shanghai Bank this morning to escape a heavy fall of masonry. Four coolies were working on the outer walls on the east side when, with a resounding crash and amid clouds of dust several tons of masonry comprising one of the arches running at right angles to the outer wall collapsed.

Luckily no one was working on the arch.

THE PANTER CASE

NO CHARGE YET MADE

THE EMBASSY'S REQUEST

London, Oct. 30.

The British Ambassador in Germany, Sir Eric Phipps, has received a further note from the German Ministry for Foreign Affairs, from which it appears that no decision has yet been taken with regard to the formulation of a charge against Mr. Noel Panter, correspondent in Munich of the Daily Telegraph who was arrested by the Bavarian police six days ago.

The British Ambassador has requested the Minister for Foreign Affairs to furnish him at the earliest possible moment with precise information regarding the charge.

It is understood that the normal procedure in this case would be for the Bavarian Government to send papers to the State Prosecutor at Leipzig with a recommendation as to the nature of the charge.

Only the State Prosecutor, however, can decide whether the case should be proceeded with and, if so, in virtue of which article in the Criminal Code the charge should be preferred.—British Wireless.

JAPANESE READY TO ABOLISH SUBMARINES

PALESTINE QUIET

AIR OF TENSION STILL EXISTING

HAIFA HARBOUR CEREMONY

London, Oct. 30.

According to reports reaching London, the situation in Palestine was to-day quiet though some tension still exists after the riots of week-end.

This morning, the High Commissioner, Sir Arthur Wauchope, visited the Government Hospital in Jerusalem to which those wounded in Sunday's disturbances had been taken.

The formal opening of Haifa Harbour to-morrow will take place, but the ceremony has been curtailed.

It would appear that the recent troubles largely originated in the mistaken belief among the Arab population that the events in Germany had led to the admission to Palestine of an excessive number of Jewish emigrants.

The facts are that the emigrants of all nationalities are controlled by the Palestine Government, particularly as regards those seeking employment, the numbers of whom are regulated not by the conditions in other countries but by the capacity of Palestine probably to absorb the additional labour.—British Wireless.

JAPANESE READY TO ABOLISH SUBMARINES

his information is derived from a reliable source and adds that with Britain, the United States and Japan agreed on this issue, the possibility of eventual international outlawing of submarines has become less remote than hitherto.—Reuter.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Here Are Some Smart Fall Stationery Ideas You'll Want to Adopt to the Letter!

DESIGNS EXPRESS INDIVIDUALITY;
WHITE, PASTEL SHADES MODISH

For the man or woman of letters, simplicity is the keynote for stationery design. These exhibits, ranging from the traditional monogram to the unique planoboard insignia, reflect the trend of the newest letterhead styles.

New York—Stationery should express your individuality this fall.

Never has there been such an attractive array of colours and designs. It's positively a joy to go shopping for letter paper these days.

The gay little co-ed will love stationery which has the name of her dormitory, as well as that of her college, engraved on the top of the paper.

Other college women are apt to choose writing paper which has personal initials in one corner, address in the other, and a broad diagonal stripe in the college colours running across the top of the paper.

Anyone lucky enough to have a picturesque country or town house ought not to pass up a chance to have a photograph of it engraved for a striking stationery design.

For those living at the beach or near a lake, why not carry a nautical idea on your choice of stationery? What could be nicer than an anchor, with perhaps a fish near it, in one corner? If you write little invitations on such paper, there'll be no doubt in your guests' minds as to what kind of wearing apparel to bring along for their visit with you.

A lady who has a summer camp in the mountains would do well to have a pine tree engraved in one corner of her writing paper.

As an economy proposition as well as a splendid idea, why not have one design in stationery serve the whole family?

Have the family name, plus an "s" with the address below, across the top of the paper. Each member of the family can use it with perfect good taste.

Nor has the artist been left out of the stationery picture. The pianist can have a row of piano keys across the top of the paper and the painter might select an easel.

Simple ideas are best for every one, particularly for a child. The first name is enough.

White and the pastel shades are in best taste. You can't go wrong if you choose white, pale gray or delicate beige.

Nearly everyone needs two sizes of stationery—one for little notes of "thank you" and the like, and another larger size for letters.

If you don't care to have your full name and address on your stationery, at least have your initials. Monograms range from modernistic styles to Old English.

Personally engraved stationery is always a perfect gift. Engraved note paper is a splendid little remembrance to take along to your hostess. The paper which serves the whole family solves the problem of choosing individual gifts for each member.

Giving a small child his own personal writing paper teaches him to take pride in sending out nice looking letters.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Rid Superfluous Hair by Rubbing

By Alicia Hart

A glove which is used to remove superfluous hair is, to say the least, a very bright idea.

You simply slip the fingerless glove on your hand and then, with circular motions, rub the places where superfluous hair exists. The hair falls off after a few rubs, leaving the skin smooth and soft.

Women who dislike the unfeminine idea of using a razor or who haven't time for depilatories are going to like the new little glove.

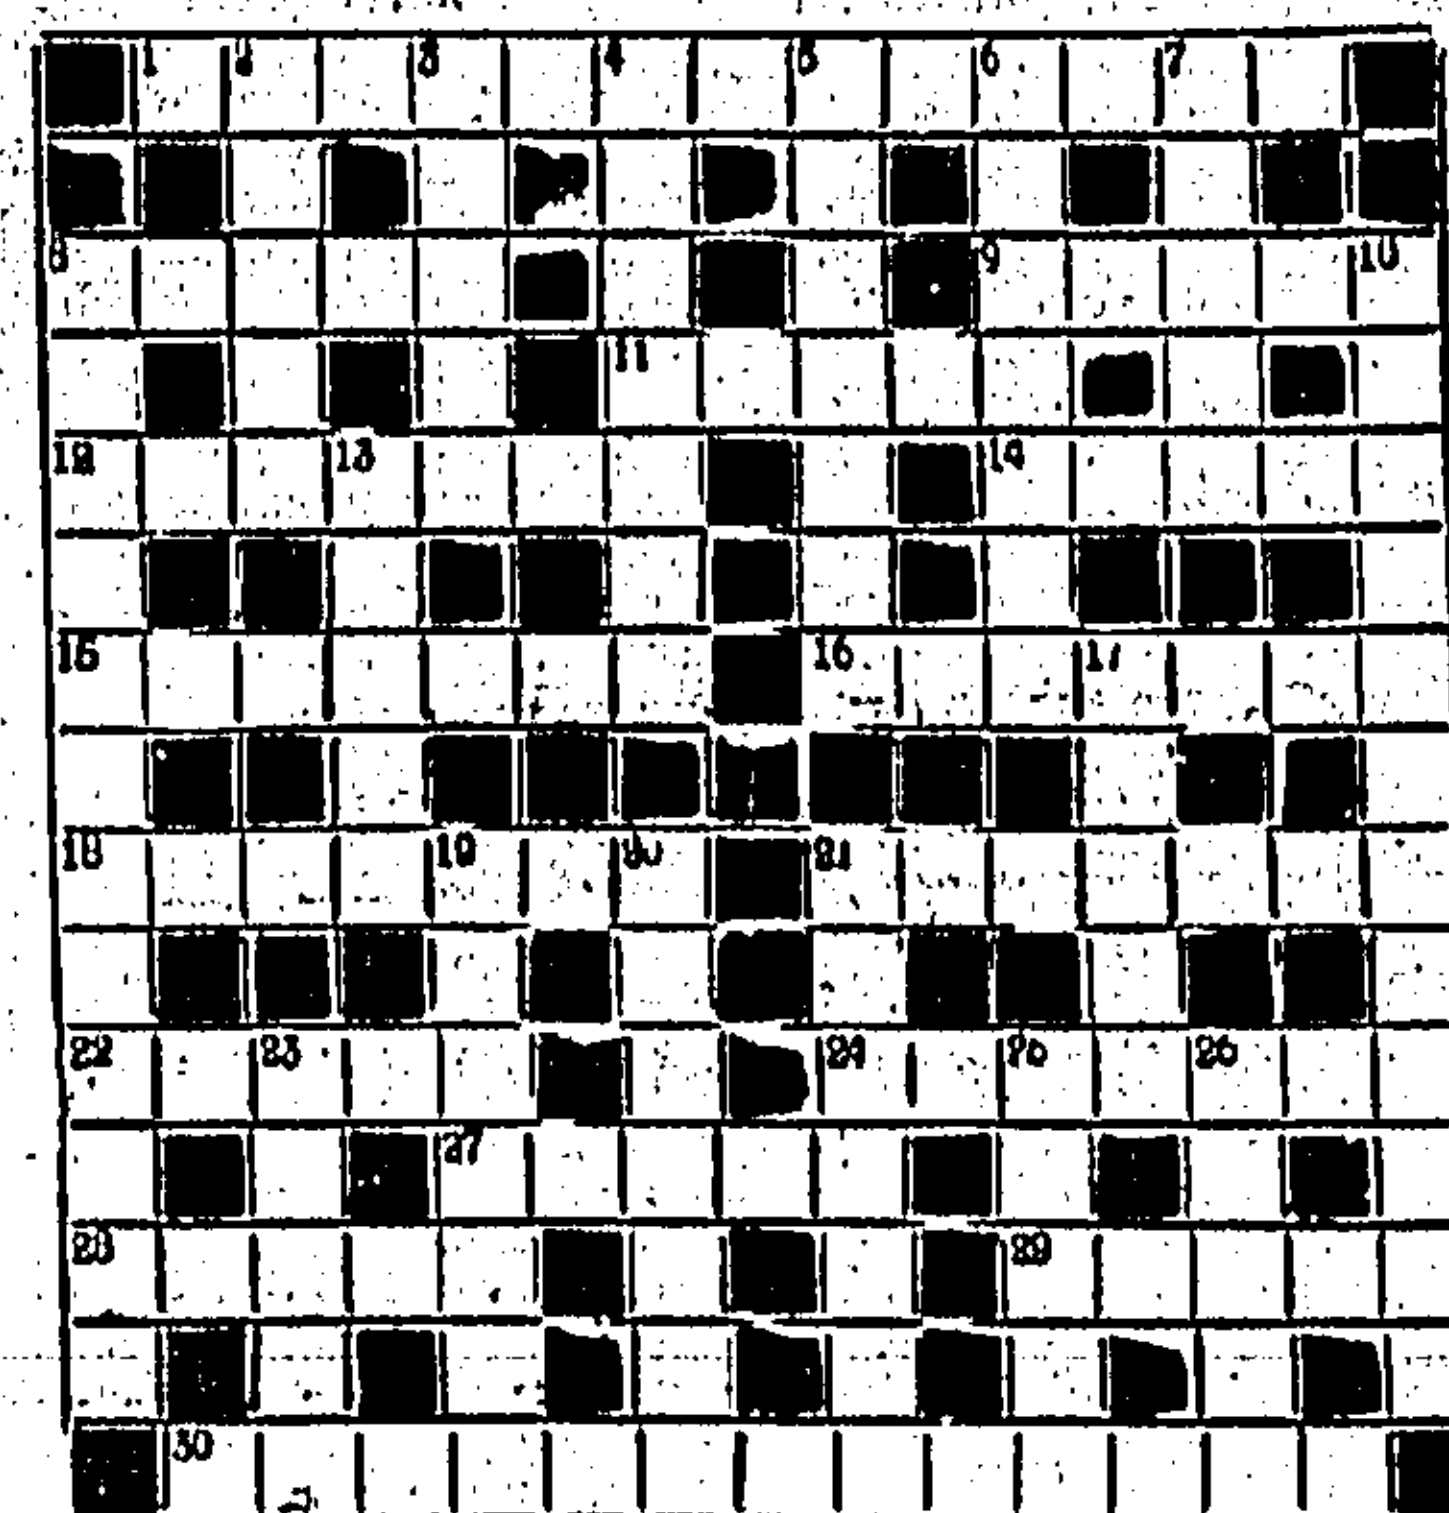

Be sure that your skin is perfectly dry before you start to rub it with the glove. The people who sponsor the new gadget claim that it tends to weaken the hair and will, in time, affect the roots and discourage extensive growth.

It's not at all expensive and lasts quite a long time, since both sides to the glove can be used.

Compacts which match either your dress or your accessories are a joy. A white evening gown, with red shoes, is handsomely complemented by a red lacquered compact.

Wooden compacts are smart as can be. They are large and flat and the grain of the wood is most amusing and decorative. If you have some of the new accessories of wood, by all means have a compact to match.

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

A Summer Mystery BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

CHAPTER XIII

"Concerning a Cave"

Unless you are in a sentimental mood, beaches are not nice things on pitch dark nights. You know that behind you is a cliff, which in daylight is full of cheerful colour, and that before you is a sea, which in daylight sparkles joyously, but when the sun has departed and the moon has not taken its place, behind you and before you and on all sides of you are great black spaces filled with uncomfortable possibilities.

Dark beaches may not perhaps appeal to all people in precisely this way, but this was the way in which the beach at Craverley appealed to Napoleon Truvelo. When he and Leonard Sefton descended to it, the blackened-out cliffs, instead of having occasional caves dotted about at pleasant intervals, became full of caves, and in each cavern lurked some disturbing thing. Yet, if one turned to face the potential danger, as self-protective instinct inclined one to do, the sea came slipping mysteriously behind one, bearing its foam and jetsam of unreasoned and unreasonable forebodings. But the forebodings, in Napoleon's case, could not strictly be called unreasonable for as he stood for a moment and watched the sheets of softly gliding white sweeping towards him and away from him—right on him one instant, receding far from him the next, floating perspective—he knew that in a very few minutes he would be riding across those waves towards a dead ship he could not see, on a mission the outcome of which he could not fathom.

"Darned dark, isn't it?" he murmured. "Where's our little pleasure steamer, and how are we going to find it?"

"The boat's beached in a large-sized cave," answered Leonard. "It's a little way along the cliff to our right. I came upon it while I was searching for that disappearing corpse."

"And got permission to use it, just when you liked?"

"No. I'm not asking permission from anybody this trip. Come along, we'd better be moving. Hello—see that?"

"Eh? See what?" jerked Napoleon, twisting his head round galvanically.

"The light. Over there."

Napoleon stared, rather grum-

pily. "Yes, I see it. You'd think it was a pretty bunch of flowers, the way you talk. And, by the way, don't forget what I told you about giving me warning when you hike me from one thing to another."

"Sorry," said Leonard, "but you'll get used to it."

"I expect so. I shall get to love it, and I'll refuse to spend any more nights at home. Well, there's one thing about that light. It'll help us to locate our ship. How on earth did you reckon to make the ship otherwise? Throw the dice and guess?"

"I, also, may be an ass, but I'm not a silly ass," responded Leonard. "I've taken my bearings—and I've got a compass."

"Hoary," muttered Napoleon, disappointedly. "Then we won't be able to miss it."

They were walking now towards the cave in which Leonard had discovered the boat. It was one of the first caves he had searched, and was one of the few he had come upon large enough to serve as boat-house. They plodded across the sand for a couple of minutes, Leonard flashing his light on the base of the cliffs at intervals while they walked, and he was just beginning to wonder whether he had made a mistake and passed the cave when he saw its black opening a little way ahead.

"Ah, there it is," he exclaimed. "Queer how distance always confuses one at night."

"Don't see your boat," answered Napoleon. "Pretty snugly tucked away, isn't it?"

Leonard did not answer immediately. Walking up to the cave entrance, he directed the ray of his flash-lamp towards the interior.

"The boat's not there," he said. "Somebody's taken it."

There was silence for a few moments, while the two men considered the position. One of the men, at least, found some fragment of consolation in their disappointment.

"After all, it's not so surprisin'," observed this one, as he followed the other into the cave. "If the boat had been ours, we would have had a right to kick up a shindy. The owner's just taken his blessed boat away, that's all."

"It's not all," replied Leonard, shortly. "It leaves us without a boat."

"Ah, that's true," agreed Napoleon, struggling to introduce the requisite note of depression into his too-blithe voice.

"Nor is the fact that the owner has taken his boat as natural as you suggest," went on Leonard. "It's a bit dark for a journey, isn't it?"

"In fact, I'm not only wondering what you and I are going to do without that boat, Truvelo," said Leonard. "I'm wondering just as much what the owner of the boat is doing with it."

"I wouldn't worry, old chap," answered Napoleon. "He's probably havin' a lovely time—just as we were going to. But look here, I say—why shouldn't he have just moved the boat?"

"You mean it might be on another part of the beach? Yes, of course, it might. And we'll have to hunt for it. I haven't much hope, but."

He stopped speaking abruptly, and switched out his light.

"Damn," thought Napoleon. "And I was just beginning to feel happy again!"

They listened. Faint footsteps sounded outside the cave. There were slow, quiet, and stealthy. As the steps drew nearer, pausing every now and then for a few moments and then resuming, Leonard put his hand on his companion's shoulder and drew him back into an angle of the cave. At first, Napoleon gently resisted. The angle of the cave did not appeal to him any more than the outside of the cave. But his resistance yielded precipitately when a shadowy figure suddenly made a blot on the dimness which vaguely differentiated the space at the entrance from the more opaque blackness of the cave's interior walls.

Leonard did not have to pull Napoleon into the angle then. Napoleon now pushed to get there.

With that momentary glimpse tantalising their minds, they awaited further developments. There was a long pause. The footsteps were resumed, their soft plop now changing to a more gritty, metallic tread as heavy boots met the harder substance of the cave's floor.

Three strides, and silence fell again. The intruder was evidently standing just inside the cave. Napoleon seriously considered the prospect of yelling "Boo," because no situation could arise, he reflected, which could be more trying than the present one. Any change must be for the better. But he resisted the temptation, and in about a minute the footsteps sounded again. This time, however, they grew softer instead of louder; and, before long, they ceased altogether.

"Good rid—" began Napoleon, and stopped in obedience to a gentle punch.

"Oh—you mean he may be wait-

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

"I want to be bad," insisted Claudette Colbert, dark-haired, dark-eyed movie star.

"O.K.," said Cecil B. De Mille, noted movie director. And Claudette got the most villainous feminine role Hollywood has had to offer in some years.

She is cast as the Empress Poppea, beautiful but cruel consort of Nero, last of the Caesars, in De Mille's "The Sign of the Cross," which is now at the Queen's Theatre, London stage favourite, who made his movie debut in "Devil and the Deep," with sensational success, plays the role of Nero. Frederic March and Elissa Landi have other leading roles, and nearly 7,500 other persons are members of the cast.

Miss Colbert admits she was tired of good-girl roles. Since her entrance to the movies, after winning stage success on Broadway, she has never played a role that called for more than mild naughtiness. Being too good in her roles was beginning to get on her nerves, she said.

"Bondage"

In a world there are more women than men, where the younger generation knows the bitter pangs of forbidden love, where young people want marriage but are not equipped to encompass all its ramifications. "Bondage" comes on Thursday to the King's Theatre to expose the pain and misery these youths suffer.

It is the story of a shop-girl, ignorant of life and innocent of its more serious side, who places her heart in a man's false promises. She may be a girl you know; living just down the street from you. She is every girl, seeking peace and happiness in a world that gives only sparingly.

Dorothy Jordan and Alexander Kirkland have the featured roles in this powerful Fox picture and the supporting cast includes Merle Tottenham, Nydia Westman, Jane Darwell, Edward Wedd, Isabel Jewell, Dorothy Libarie and Rafaela Orlano.

"Quick Millions"

Rowland Brown, whose authorship of "The Doorway to Hell" won him a Fox Film contract and a chance to direct "Quick Millions," Fox drama starring Spencer Tracy, will be seen at the Oriental Theatre on Wednesday, and Thursday, has had a colourful career that ranges from a "hitch" in the U.S. Navy to being a fashion artist for the Detroit Times. He also has been a professional pugilist, a baseball player and proprietor of a night club.

In addition to directing "Quick Millions," he is co-author with Courtenay Terrett.

Spencer Tracy, whose first talking picture, "Up The River," established him as one of the most outstanding actors yet brought from the Broadway stage to the screen, has the stellar role. Other important players in the cast are Sally Eilers, Marguerite Churchill and Warner Richmond.

"I Loved You Wednesday"

The success of "Miriam Jordan" on the screen seems to be bound up inseparably with Warner Baxter, Fox Film star.

In three of her first four pictures, Miss Jordan has shared honors with Baxter. He was also instrumental in helping her get her contract with Fox. When she was to make her test, she was nervous and felt that she could do better if she had someone to enact the scene with her.

no longer deprived of money for unemployment pay, can buy more goods.

The increased demand for goods means more remunerative (not necessarily higher) prices for the manufacturers, and increased demand and better wages for labour. Better pay for labour, because—in order to cope with the enhanced demand for goods—industry will soon be calling out for many of those put on public tasks, and will necessarily have to offer attractive rates of wages as the means of getting them. No strikes, no lock-outs, no long-drawn-out negotiations, no futile Socialism.

That is the desirable, normal state of affairs that would be brought about by the rational issue and rational application of additional currency.

The permanent cure for unemployment is to establish the balance between the production of goods and the production of general well-being. This can be done by the sensible use of currency.

Away with the make-believe of the "economists." Put greater purchasing power in the hands of the people, and lay that "inflation" bogy.

Baxter volunteered, and on a few minutes notice played opposite her for the test, a job usually relegated to one of the youngsters on the lot.

Encouraged by his quiet confidence in her ability, the girl did her best work, and was immediately signed. She first played opposite Baxter in "6 Hours To Live," then in "Dangerously Yours," and now she is in the cast of "I Loved You Wednesday," which in addition to Baxter and Miss Jordan, number Elissa Landi, Victor Jory and Laura Hope Crews among the principals. "I Loved You Wednesday" is now at the King's Theatre.

"Fra Diavolo"

The whole family will enjoy Laurel and Hardy's latest feature-length comedy "Fra Diavolo" which is scheduled to open on Friday at the Queen's Theatre for it is a picture which bears not only the stamp of individual, inimitable humour which these two are noted for, but which has been supplied with a highly colourful musical background. Laid in a picturesque era of nobility, courtly ladies and highway bandits, the plot gives the Messrs. Laurel and Hardy every opportunity to make delectable fools of themselves, and to become involved in a series of side-splitting adventures which almost leads them to the gallows.

The fun begins when the pair are robbed of their life savings by a bandit, and seeking revenge, hit upon the bright idea of becoming brigands themselves. Hardy pretends he is Diavolo, a notorious bandit chief, known throughout the country. Laurel becomes his trusted henchman. Eventually they encounter the dangerous Diavolo himself and are made his prisoners. Their attempts to escape, their blunders in trying to prevent the bandit chief from robbing the lovely Lady Pamela, and their interference in a romantic liaison between a young officer and an innkeeper's daughter, supply the situations which keep the audience rolling in its seats.

The comic pair have never been funnier. The picture is also benefited by an excellent supporting cast, which features the well-known stage star, Dennis King, who sings a number of rollicking ballads and proves himself equally expert at dramatic work in the dual role of Diavolo and the Marquis de San Marco.

AMERICA'S PROGRAMME

In twelve months' time, it may be possible to get a good idea of the way the American recovery programme is going to work out. The one thing clear to-day is that all signs fall in a time like the present. The United States is trying something so completely new that an observer has nothing dependable to go on. Everything is adrift, and about the only prediction that seems safe is that when the various blocks have all been put together again the picture will look like nothing ever seen before. It is for this reason that all the learned attempts to analyse and dissect the recovery programme are so contradictory. No two critics get the same result. Does the arch-conservative complain—as one did recently—that it is getting almost impossible to tell the news from Washington these days? Elsewhere you can find the arch-radical protesting that the whole business is just a great Fascist coup designed to enthrone privileged wealth forever. Does the studious economist prove conclusively, with graphs and columns of figures, that the kind of economy represented in the industrial and agricultural control plans cannot possibly work. You can find books by equally studious economists (written before March 4) proving that only through a planned economy similar to the one now being attempted can a mechanised modern society survive. The doctors, in other words, disagree about as thoroughly as can be imagined; and the more thoughtful and learned they are, the more they seem to differ with one another. What it all comes down to is the fact that America is set on a road so new that the maps have got to be made up as she goes along. The famous war-time song "We don't know where we're going but we're on our way" fairly represents the situation. It is just as true with the decision to purchase gold abroad as it is with the internal programme of the gold plan. President Roosevelt doubtless has an objective, but he can only achieve it if other countries are prepared to submit quietly, which seems most unlikely. That is the danger in the situation. Domestically, the United States can do much as she likes. The ability to push through the programme depends upon whether democratic society can live up to a supreme test, and produce the necessary aptitude for the science of politics. Outside America, it impinges on the ideas of other countries and a currency war seems inevitable.

NOTES OF THE DAY

TROUBLOUS DAYS

All the news these days seems to consist of crises and rumours of crises. A Cabinet falls in France. Riots accompany elections in Spain. Arabs riot in Palestine. Mr. T. V. Soong resigns. The Grau San Martin Government in Cuba is on the verge of collapse. An English journalist is arrested in Munich. A shake-up in the United States Administration looks possible. And a Labour candidate captures East Fulham! Most striking of all, the world economic depression is almost One Hundred Per Cent. responsible, directly or indirectly, for each and every development that has provided a head-line in the last few days. Yet life, in the main, goes on much as usual. Ninety per cent. take but a casual interest. The remainder split into diametrically opposite camps, those who feel it great to be alive in this era of world change and those who hanker for a desert island—without a radio.

T. V. SOONG

Mr. Soong's resignation has shaken Shanghai severely and no one will question that he takes away with him one of the main props of the Nanking Government's stability. Bankers have given him credit facilities which they would have hesitated to grant to many others in times of national turmoil. He remains among the few Chinese leaders whose integrity and singleness of purpose have gone largely unquestioned even by his political foes. His resignation appears to have arisen from the instinct for common sense; the country's finances are already in too parlous a state to permit further excessive military expenditure to be countenanced by a sound financier. Mr. Kung takes over an uninviting, thankless task with all good wishes and a feeling that he is, perhaps, the next best man in such an emergency. But there would be widespread satisfaction if Mr. Soong could be prevailed upon to reconsider his decision—if it did not also mean the surrendering of his principles.

ARAB UNREST

The unrest in Palestine provides another striking example of the interdependence of peoples in this modern world. It seems to be a direct repercussion of the rise of Nazism. Jews find existence next to impossible in Germany and leave in their thousands. An attempt is made to speed up the scheme for providing a national home for the Jews in Palestine. The quickening of immigration alarms the Arabs—the recrudescence of the disturbances of a few years back was almost inevitable. The outcome is uncertain. The worst may be over, or may yet be to come. So much depends upon the resource and tactfulness of the men on the spot. So far they seem to have managed well in difficult circumstances; if the Arab leaders can be brought to the council table further bloodshed may be avoided.

CUBA'S PROBLEMS

Cuba has been remarkably quiet since the Hotel Nacional carnage and the mad blood-lust that followed. The fairly long interlude seems, however, to have contributed little to the achievement of ordered government and the collapse of the Grau San Martin regime seems imminent, all essential services having been brought to a standstill by a general strike, which the government is helpless to meet or to minimise. The weakness, of course, is the dependence upon the support of the student and ABC organisations, both of which are ready to criticise but offer little constructive assistance. If Dr. Cespedes agrees to return, he will meet with very similar difficulties, although his Ministers and advisers will probably be more able than those Dr. Grau San Martin has been able to gather around him. Very reluctantly the observer begins to wonder whether the Machado method of maintaining law and order by forceful methods was not the only safe one in Cuban circumstances.

ONE LESS NUISANCE

A San Diego youth was sentenced to a year in gaol the other day for confessing to a murder which he had not committed. San Diego had a murder which drew a lot of public attention. This youth, desiring a taste of notoriety, went to the police and confessed. In a short time the police proved that he did not know what he was talking about; but instead of turning him loose they charged him with obstructing justice, and now he will have a year in which to meditate on his folly. Here is a step which might profitably be followed in all such cases. Unsolved murders frequently bring "confessions" from notoriety-seekers, and they are a tremendous nuisance to the authorities. It is safe to suppose that the nuisance would be considerably abated if a good stiff sentence were the price

LAY THIS INFLATION BOGY

THERE ARE GOODS IN PLENTY IN THE WORLD

By PETER BROWN

THE world is as right as rain. If it only knew it.

The necessities and comforts of life are available in abundance. But we refuse to make full use of them. Because a mystery is made of money, which is nothing but the means of distributing all the good things.

Contrast this contrariness with the common sense that prevails ordinarily in everyday matters.

The channel through which goods pass to the consumer is currency, and it is simply common sense that this channel should be widened as required. The amount of currency must be capable of coping with the quantity of goods available for passing on.

Gold has nothing whatever to do with our ability to produce wheat and consume it, to make and use a motor-car.

As a monetary medium, the inert yellow metal that hypnotises the "economists" is a pitiable makeshift, resorted to on the unvarnished assumption that there is no such thing as good faith.

Gold is intended to serve as: (1) The international standard of value and counter of exchange; (2) The "anchor" for currency, i.e., each ounce of gold carries a definite amount of currency.

NOTES WOULD DO AS WELL.

Now (assuming both of those functions to be legitimate) let us suppose for a moment that at a given time, the nations' stocks of gold had been replaced by international monetary notes—each note representing one or more ounces of gold.

The passing to and fro of these notes would have served exactly the same purposes as the transfer of actual gold. In addition, this procedure would have had the enormous advantage that, as world requirements expanded, the number of international "gold notes" could have been increased accordingly. Always by common agreement—no possibility of any country monkeying about on its own. And as each international note would have carried a definite amount of currency, the amounts of the national currencies would have been increased as well and rendered capable of dealing with the growing needs of domestic trade.

That procedure is, in principle, practicable to-day—seeing that when all is said and done, all currencies are still ruled by gold. A simple operation will restore prosperity:—Increase the amounts of all currencies in the same proportion, multiply them all by the same number. Allocate half of each resulting multiple to the nation as currency, and half as international notes.

As soon as sufficient money is provided, it will be possible to pass on the goods that are hung up. But when expansion of currency is proposed, the "economists" throw up their hands in horror. Try to make our flesh creep with a bogey they have dubbed "inflation". A representative "economist" made this statement recently: "If the amount of currency is doubled the manufacturers, knowing this, will immediately double their prices."

Why? Their production costs have not gone up overnight. Increased prices would be sheer profiteering, and would easily be checked.

The truth is that if additional currency is issued rationally and applied rationally, it will be difficult to profiteer. Industry and trade (and the banks) will certainly make greater profits, but the extra profits must come in the main from increased turnover. Prices will rise only when the demand catches up with and exceeds the supply—and there is a good deal of leeway to make up in this direction.

This is the way to put it:—If the amount of currency is doubled and used to widen the basis of normal purchasing power, the manufacturers already operating on a margin of profit will be able to double their profits out of a doubled turnover. Those now said to be producing at a loss will also be put well on their feet. As an example, take the wheat-growers of the West, for whom the City shows such altruistic concern. If the growers could sell their present surplus (i.e., wheat produced but without a market) at the same price as the wheat they do manage to dispose of, their affairs would immediately become profitable.

Let us define inflation.

Is it the issue of currency beyond a certain "backing" of gold? It is nothing of the kind. That is the bugaboo "inflation" of the "economists."

Goods are produced. The idea is to use them. To exchange them. The means of exchanging goods is money. (Barter is for barbarians.) To exchange a certain quantity of goods, a certain amount of money is necessary. To exchange double that quantity of goods double the amount of money is needed. And no more.

INFLATION IS THE ISSUE OF CURRENCY BEYOND THE AMOUNT NECESSARY TO EX-CHANGE ALL THE GOODS AVAILABLE.

Saturation point in the issue of currency is reached when further issues fail to increase the turnover of goods—when (after every precaution against profiteering has been taken) further issues merely cause a corresponding rise in prices.

As to the "backing" for currency. It is goods that are to be exchanged. Goods are the backing. President Roosevelt wants "the dollar to have the same value a generation hence." The only way to maintain the prices of goods at the same level is to issue sufficient currency to exchange all the goods produced. Plenty of goods and too little money, and prices fall. Too much money and too little goods and prices rise.

"Economics"? It is elementary arithmetic. Ask any schoolboy to check this over:—

The Very Idea!

LET'S JOIN THE NAVY

By Edward "Columbus" Kelly.

SUCCESS of Navy Day last Saturday has prompted the query "Why are British Naval ships never featured in films?"

Practically every picture from America contrives to introduce either a warship, or an airship, or some other ship of the ilk.

The reason is that that the British Navy doesn't have half the fun the American gobs do. British sailors have to be on duty at the right time; they are not allowed to throw pies at the Admiral; they are tied up completely with red tape, hawse, lanyards and other yarns.

The American Navy, as every film-goer has seen, enjoys a wonderful time. To start with their wear hats that fit all the girls they meet. When they go ashore no one bothers if they don't come back at the correct hour. If the captain makes a fuss at their being four or five days late they just say, "Aw, cap'n, give us a break," and everything is O.K.

As far as we can judge from films, almost every American battleship has several of the most attractive female film stars among its crew. Besides having a wife in every port, the American sailor has two or three on board as well, thus competing with Solomon for the title of Wise Guy. These girls can usually say very little beyond "Aw g'wan!", "Say, big boy," and also (after reaching port and meeting some of the other wives), "But I don't understand."

These film stars cause great fun on board because they will not stay put. They pop out of their hiding places just as the captain is passing by. They cause the sailors to forget their duties so far as to leave a bucket of white-wash at the bottom of the ladder down which the visiting admiral is about to walk. They get in the kitchen and put mustard and pepper in the chief officer's ice cream just when he happens to be also entertaining a hidden lady friend.

Perhaps the next Disarmament Conference can be persuaded to save the British film industry by either (a) making America disarm, thus reducing unfair competition, or (b) allowing some of the prettiest film stars to join the British Navy.

TEE-TIME

We met a pal of ours at the Kowloon Golf Club last Saturday just as he came in to the 19th Hole from his first game.

"What was your score?" asked another member.

"Seventy-two," replied the novice.

"Seventy-two? That's jolly good."

"Yeah, not too bad," replied our pal, oh pal, oh pal, "but I'm hoping to do better at the second hole."

MIDNIGHT FOLLIES

She: "A pretty time of night for you to come home!"

Us: A pretty time of night for you to be awake!"

She: "I stayed awake for the last four hours waiting for you to come home."

Us: "And I have been keeping myself awake for the last four hours at the K.C.C. waiting for you to go to sleep."

INTO THE BREECHES

Of course, you know that to distinguish the lady wearing pants from her male companion, it is only necessary to observe which one is listening.

Available: 6 oranges and 6 pence—price 1d. each; 12 oranges and 6 pence—price 1/2d. each (if, as the "economists" suggest, 1d. each is still charged, half of the oranges will be wasted); 6 oranges and 12 pence—price 2d. each. But, 12 oranges and 12 pence—price 1d. each; again.

MORE MONEY—MORE WORK.

Now, let us visualise the effect of currency expansion in present conditions. Say additional currency is issued and used for paying full wages to unemployed workers in return for work of public utility. What is the result? These workers are able to buy more goods. The public in general.

TRADE DIVISION

USEFUL PREFERENCE FOR LANCASHIRE

INDIA COTTON PARLEYS

New Delhi, Oct. 30.

A substantial preference for Lancashire has been agreed upon by the Japanese and Indian cotton delegates.

A tariff of fifty per cent. ad valorem on most cotton textile qualities, and specific duties on the remainder, with Imperial Preference, was agreed upon by the Indian and Japanese delegations which met here for the first time since the Simla talks.

This means that if the duty against Lancashire remains at twenty-five per cent. as at present, Lancashire will receive a preference by the same margin.

The delegations also reached an agreement in principle on the basis of the imposition of specific duties and the application thereto of the most favoured nation clause.

GULF NARROWED.

It is understood that the gulf has been sensibly narrowed and that the Osaka mill-owners are less intransigent than they were originally. It is believed that the one important issue now to be overcome is the extent of the Japanese quota. It is believed that India is insisting on a quota not exceeding 350,000,000 yards, while Japan wants 550,000,000 yards.—Reuter.

MONGOLIAN AUTONOMY

$320,000 Government Budget

Peking, Oct. 29. According to Chinese reports received here from Tulluimiao, the 170 assembled princes of Mongolia have already founded an autonomous government for Inner Mongolia and decided to establish a Government building at Tienchi, 160 miles north of Kueihua. The resolution provides for a budget of $320,000 and no Government official will receive any salary. Instead he and his family will be provided with sheep.

Prince Yuntswang heads the new government. The assembled princes have delegated one of their number to proceed to welcome Gen. Huang Shao-hsiung, Minister of Home Affairs, and his mission from Nanking.—Reuter.

H.E.'S VISIT TO MACAO

PAYING RETURN CALL TO-DAY

His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, accompanied by Lady Peel, Capt. R. F. Walter and Mr. J. G. Pilscher, Private Secretary, left for Macao this morning shortly after 8 a.m. to return a call of the Governor of Macao, Lieut. Col. Bernardes de Miranda. On arrival aboard the Tarantula His Excellency was greeted with a salute of 17 guns.

The party will return to Hongkong this evening about sunset.

SHARE SLUMP IN NEW YORK

GOLD PLAN HAS NO EFFECT

Suggestions of inflationary measures are still failing to make an impression on the New York Stock Exchange and there was a heavy slump in share prices again. Many stocks fell as much as five points.

There were rumours of the imposition of a gold embargo by France, which cannot be confirmed.

ANOTHER QUAKE

Los Angeles, Oct. 24. An earthquake strong enough to dislodge loose stones and shake nervously jarred Los Angeles and vicinity at 11 o'clock to-night. An old courthouse fell within a fenced area erected after the March 10 disaster, as a result of which the structure was condemned.

FACING GRAVE CRISIS

SIR WALTER LAYTON'S ADVICE

The internationalization of aviation as the means of world security and world peace was advanced by Lord Allen of Hurtwood, addressing a youth rally of the League of Nations Union at Harrow School.

The subject of discussion was: "What can you do to avert world chaos?"

Mr. H. W. Austin, the England tennis player, was in the chair. "The heart of the war problem is fear," said Lord Allen. "We have destroyed that fear inside our own nation by instituting a police force."

"We must do the same in the world. The issue of force must be faced. It can be faced by internationalization of all forces of aviation."

He said that Great Britain must be prepared to take her part in the policing of the world.

OVER-PRODUCTION AND CHAOS.

Sir Walter Layton, continuing the discussion, said that at present we were facing a crisis comparable to that of the War.

The conditions of the world at present had led to an economic restriction equivalent to that during the War.

This had been brought about by the same nationalism that had brought about the war. Each nation was striving for self-sufficiency and Sir Walter showed in detail how this led to the over-production which had caused the present chaos.

"The doctrine of 1913," he added, "is being preached in Germany that war is the highest expression of the human spirit."

Sir Walter's advice to youth was: "Study and understand."

He asked his audience to try to understand the point of view of youth in Nazi Germany or Communist Russia.

"We have," he said, "to create the international world to take responsibility for law and order and to turn our backs on a policy of exclusiveness."

After Sir Walter had finished, a resolution to be forwarded to the Disarmament Conference at Geneva, expressing hope for the success of their work, was put to the meeting and passed unanimously.

SYSTEMATIC FRAUD BY TRUSTED SERVANT

Eight Shops Victimised Since March

A systematic fraud, involving eight Chinese shops, was alleged by the Police against Lee Sui-yung this morning.

He pleaded guilty before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court to charges of falsifying accounts, to the total of $1,282.61, while employed at the Pang Yee Tai Lung Kee Import and Export firm, 113, Bonham Strand East.

Accused was ordered to refund the money or to serve six months' prison in default.

Detective-Inspector O'Donovan said accused was a trusted servant of the firm, so much so that he could order what goods he wished and as he thought they were required. It was discovered he used eight false chops in respect of sums paid to various shops in Hongkong. His position was such that he was never questioned and it was only by a coincidence that he was found out. It had been going on since March 27 last.

Replying to the Magistrate accused said he spent the money long ago but would refund it in two years' time. If he could obtain loans from friends he would make good the sum within a year.

Insp. O'Donovan: The man was arrested at the Great China Hotel. He had left his master's address. When found his luggage was fully packed and he was apparently endeavouring to get away. He had only $1.20 in cash when arrested.

JACKIE BROWN BEATEN

THRILLING BOUT IN LONDON

WOLGAST'S FINE DISPLAY

London, Oct. 30.

In one of the most exciting fights seen in England for many years, Midget Wolgast out-pointed Jackie Brown, of Manchester, at the Albert Hall to-night.

Jackie Brown is the official world's flyweight champion, but the contest was a non-title fight.

Midget Wolgast has long been recognized as one of the most brilliant fighters at his weight in the world. In some States of America, he is regarded and described as the world's champion.

To-night's contest was over twelve rounds and it provided a magnificent scrap, the fastest and best in the memory of most spectators.

MAGNIFICENT BOXING.

Both boxers displayed magnificent generalship and ringcraft, speedy footwork and punching.

Wolgast flashed in stinging lefts to the face with telling effect on several occasions, staggering Brown, who retaliated by forceful rushes, which carried the American into the ropes where Brown dealt out heavy punishment.

There was little between them at the finish but the decision was correctly given to Wolgast.—Reuter.

Claimed Right To Break Wife's Nose

HUSBAND BUTTS IN QUARREL

"He has no right to break his wife's nose," remarked Sub-Inspector Elston before Mr. Balfour in the Central Magistrate's Court this morning, when Kwan Cheung, tailor, pleaded guilty to assaulting his wife at 23, Stone Nullah Lane, and was bound over.

Defendant, it was stated, interfered in a quarrel between his wife and her mother-in-law. He struck his wife several blows on the face and maintained he had a right to do so as she had shown disrespect for his mother. It was thought her nose was broken.

"The defendant claims that he is entitled to beat his wife. That may be so, but we submit the beating was excessive," the Police officer added. "They have both had trouble before and have been before the S.C.A."

THE NETHERLANDS INDUSTRIES FAIR

In the 20th Royal Netherlands Industries Fair held at Utrecht, the participants numbered 1,109 (1,053 in the autumn-fair of 1932), while the visitors considerably exceeded the numbers of last year.

Although there was a general demand for cheaper goods, participants with articles of luxury also booked good returns. The number of orders was quite satisfactory and it was a pleasant surprise the buyers no longer restricted themselves to small orders, as at former fairs, but seemed inclined to secure themselves at long date and for larger quantities. Consequently there was a slight general rise in prices.

Good business was also done by foreign participants, particularly by the Italian section, that showed an extensive, collective exhibit of Italian produce.

The Dutch Colonial Department attracted much attention, especially on account of the way in which interest was aroused for rice, sugar and tapioca.

Implements and Machinery for Dairy-industry gave a good idea of the new inventions exhibited by home and foreign makers.

The favourable result of this autumn-fair caused a great many exhibitors to book space for the 1934 Spring Fair, which will be held from March 13th till 22nd inclusive.

SHIP COLLISION

STEAMER HITS A CUTTER

Manila, Oct. 26.

The s.s. Regulus, inter-island steamer, rammed the s.s. Pathfinder, U.S. coast and geodetic cutter at 6 o'clock yesterday morning in the Pasig river. The gunwale of the Pathfinder was damaged while one of the cutter's lifeboats was smashed.

The accident occurred when E. Biel, pilot, was trying to take the Regulus out of the river so she could proceed to Cavite for cleaning. The Pathfinder was tied up along the wharf at Magallanes Landing.

POWERFUL INTERPORT CRICKET TEAM SELECTED

PROBLEM OF THE ATTACK

SOUND RATHER THAN BRILLIANT

OWEN-HUGHES'S HONOUR

The Hongkong Interport cricket team to oppose Shanghai next week has been chosen, and although its composition is bound to evoke a certain amount of criticism, it must be said of the selectors that they have got together, at least on paper, a combination capable of proving itself good enough to beat the visitors.

The selected eleven is:
H. Owen-Hughes (H.K.C.C.)

Capt. G. S. Dunkley (H.K.C.C.)

T. M. L. Redmond (H.K.C.C.)

Capt. P. A. V. Williams (Army)

A. R. Minu (I.R.C.)

T. A. Pearce (H.K.C.C.)

E. R. Duckitt (H.K.C.C.)

E. C. Fincher (K.C.C.)

F. Goodwin (K.C.C.)

Lieut. A. C. Hamilton (Army)

Lieut. G. C. Garthwaite (Army)

CHIEF CONCERN.

The chief concern of the selectors was obviously that of attack. There has probably never been a representative team chosen without this department causing the greatest worry and thought.

The task in this case had not been lightened by the trial matches. In addition to Garthwaite, Hamilton, Minu, Goodwin and Redmond, there was Frank Pereira and Gordon Burnett whose claims for inclusion were equally as strong.

Current form has shown that there is so little to choose between these players that it was just a toss up as to whom would be the lucky ones.

Minu more or less picked himself for he is bowling extra-ordinarily well just now and on a wicket which offers the slightest assistance might well run through the Shanghai team. Garthwaite and Hamilton had sound batting to support their claims, and it therefore appears to have narrowed down to Goodwin, and Redmond, or Burnett and Pereira for the other two places.

OTHER SPORTS ON PAGE 9

BATTING STRENGTH.

Perhaps the attacks as it stands does lack variety; perhaps it even lacks an opening combination to indulge successfully in "shock" tactics on a suitable wicket. Nevertheless the bowlers selected are reliable, and if blessed with that intangible gift known as inspiration, may well prove Shanghai's undoing and pave the way for a Hongkong victory.

Of the batting strength there can be no question.

MALFROY BEATS PERRY

ASTONISHING DEFEAT IN NEW ZEALAND TENNIS TEST

Dunedin, New Zealand, Oct. 25. There was a surprising upset of form in lawn tennis here to-day when Fred Perry, who did so much to win the Davis Cup for England and who won the American singles championship, was beaten two sets to love by the New Zealander, Malfroy. The score was 6-4, 6-4.

The other matches to-day all resulted in victories for the English touring team.
Perry, partnered by F.I.D. Wilde, reversed his defeat in the singles by narrowly defeating Malfroy and Wilson in a doubles match, the score being 6-7, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

H.G.N. Lee (Britain) beat Wilson (New Zealand) 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 and Wilde beat Pearce of New Zealand 6-2, 6-4.—Reuter.

GOLF TOUR OF SOUTH AFRICA

ENGLISH WOMEN START WELL IN TEST

Capetown, Oct. 25. The English women golfers, who are making a tour of South Africa, were successful in the first day's play to-day in a test match against all South Africa, winning all four matches played.

Miss Molly Gourlay (Britain) defeated the South African woman champion, Miss Burwell by 4 and three.
Miss Fishwick, Miss Plumpton and Miss Pentony all won their matches by comfortable margins.—Reuter.

Famous Amateur Players

Corinthians May Move Playing Pitch

London. There has been some talk of the famous English amateur football club, the Corinthians F. C., giving up their playing pitch at the Crystal Palace.

This rumour seems to have emanated from the fact that the Corinthians have resigned from the Football Association cup competition owing to the failure of the F. A. to exempt them from the qualifying rounds.
It is stated that it was their share of the F. A. Cup gates that enabled the Corinthians to lease the famous ground inside the Crystal Palace.

In the absence of Sir Henry Buckland, the manager of the Crystal Palace, his private secretary said that the management was on the friendliest of terms with the Corinthians and the only question was the matter of getting attractive opponents for them.

"Naturally they can please themselves where they play, but we shall always be pleased to have them with us," he said.

No definite statement has been made by the Club itself, but the fact that at least two matches have been arranged to take place on the old Cup final enclosure seems to give the lie to the rumour.

The Corinthians will play Oxford University on November 18, and Cambridge University on December 2, and if they can arrange other attractive matches they will be staged at the Crystal Palace.

The game between the Corinthians and Queen's Park, the famous Scottish amateur team, will probably be resumed this season, and the first game has been provisionally fixed for January 2, at Glasgow.—Reuter.

No More Flat Racing At Kwanti

DECISION MADE BY COMMITTEE

There will be no public-race meetings of the Fanling Hunt and Race Club this winter owing to adverse financial returns.

The Committee have decided to confine their activities to gymkhana, which will include hurdling and steeplechasing, but will eliminate flat races.

Warning of the impending financial disaster which might result from continuing the public race meetings has been found in the falling cash sweeps and pari-mutuel returns at Happy Valley and also at Macao.

It is this consideration as much as anything which has actuated the committee's decision.

It has also to be observed that this will eliminate the "E" Class ponies from competing at Fanling, while a vague suggestion has been made that this class of pony is to be withdrawn from local racing by the Hongkong Jockey Club.

SHARKEY NOT FINISHED

Seeks Fight With Max Baer

Newton, Mass., Oct. 25. Jack Sharkey, former world heavyweight champion, revealed he is not yet through with the fight game, despite the rude jolting he received at the hands of King Levinsky and Tommy Loughran in his comeback attempt.

He said his last two bouts have put him in such condition that he wants more action.

"I was very much pleased with my showing against Loughran," he said. "I thought I won the bout easily. In the last three rounds, I was as strong as ever I was in my career, and that convinced me that I am far from being a has-been."

He revealed he has tentative matches in Boston and Miami, Florida.
Sharkey said he wants a bout with Max Baer, the youthful California heavy who was thrashed into the front rank of contenders as a result of a technical knockout victory over Max Schmeling of Germany, former world champion.

"I could give him (Baer) a boxing lesson," Sharkey said.

M. W. LO SURPRISES CHAMPION

HSU CHENG CHI IN ACTION

CLEVER DISPLAY

Yesterday it was Hsu Cheng-chi's experience to turn up on the court and wait in vain for his opponent. Luckily for China's new champion net player, and the spectators who gathered at the S.C.A.A. courts at King's Park, M. W. Lo was prepared to step in the breach and provided a popular novel ending to the whole thing.

Nevertheless there seems to be something radically wrong with these "hitches." For instance Tsui Wai-pui complains this morning that he was never officially notified about yesterday's proposed exhibition. He also had visions of a repetition of Sunday's fiasco, and once bitten—

Be that as it may, yesterday's games at King's Park were extremely entertaining. That Hsu has had practically no experience of grass courts was very obvious, but he gave very little away, and in being taken to 10-8, 4-6, 6-0 by M. W. Lo had to appreciate that it was Lo's skill, rather than his own shortcomings which contributed to such an even struggle.

LO'S SAGACITY.

M. W. Lo seemed to find the occasion one for inspired play. His wider repertoire of ground strokes and sagacity in conserving his strength and applying an advanced form of technique and set of court tactics had their effect in the first two sets.

He definitely had Hsu anxious in his change of length, pace and subtly directed shots. Lo refused to be hurried into anything, but if Hsu chose to come up on the wrong ball, then it was just too bad for him. Lo's passing shots on both hands—always a feature of his ground stroke work—were whipped out with unfailing regularity and he had the satisfaction in the first two sets of forcing Hsu to play a foreign type of game.

Hsu has built his game up on the American school of tactics. They are simple but direct. A hard service, follow up, volley or kill. That he has assiduously studied, and is gradually perfecting, this style was clearly indicated. Hsu produced one of the fastest first services seen in Hongkong for a long time, and there is no questioning that he can smash.

ONE BIG WEAKNESS.

But like all players who have yet to develop to their fullest Hsu revealed one big weakness. He has no reliable backhand. Lo took only a couple of games to discover this and acted accordingly. Once overcome this disability and Hsu will be a well equipped player and capable of holding his own among the best.

He is quite sound in his forehand driving, although it was very plain that the slower grass court did not permit him to indulge in that early drive which is so essential on a hard court. But Hsu showed he was by no means a mechanical. He made an intelligent use of the court, varied his shots quite well, and scored a

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET
EASY

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was easy yesterday. Business done 1,470,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: The market took a downward trend on account of heavy liquidation due to Wall Street's difficulty to analyze the Administration's latest monetary plan and unsettling rumours including the rumour that France is contemplating a gold embargo, which cannot be confirmed. The American Steel Institute announced Ingot Steel Production at 20.1% of capacity. Our New York Office Cable (This morning): Stocks: Bearishly inclined traders apparently sold stocks when the morning rally failed to hold. Further irregularity is indicated temporarily. Wheat: Buying continued with the Government taking cash wheat on all markets which advanced futures and caused realising. Grain: However were well maintained. Buying side still favoured on all declines. Cotton: The market was easier on December liquidation, increasing private crop forecasts and continued uncertainty which are the results of the Government's gold policy accentuated by action of other markets. Currency inflationists are buyers on declines. Silver: The market opened firm and closed steadily at lower levels due to buying orders from China. Cable received during our Night Service "Administration purchase of foreign gold is renewed speculative spur stop permanent effect unpredictable."

YOUTH SHOCKS TORIES

UNDERGRADUATES PLEAD IN VAIN FOR PEACE

YOUTH was decisively defeated at the Conservative Conference which opened in Birmingham today.

For a few surprising moments, two Oxford undergraduates dared to stand up against the older generation, but from the moment they opened their lips it was clear that their fate was sealed.

The Tory delegates from all parts of the country—chiefly middle-aged or elderly—listened in shocked silence to these two young men who dared to plead for peace and the settlement of disputes by discussion rather than force.

An elderly parson in the front row, who had wildly cheered demands for more battleships, more guns and more men, looked up in disgust.

Grey-haired women who had enthusiastically clapped their hands when Lord Lloyd declared he was sick and tired of the Tory Party being tied to international pacifists raised their hands with equal enthusiasm to vote against these incredible young Tories who had the audacity to suggest that it was better to remove the causes of war than to repeat the performance of 1914-1918.

The day's debate revealed indeed quite clearly that the Tory Party as represented by its local leaders now stands for more armaments and the abandonment of what was contentiously described as weak internationalism.

GENEVA MOTION WITHDRAWN.

This was revealed, not only by the complete squashing of the undergraduates, but by the hasty withdrawal in face of certain defeat of a motion congratulating the Government on its plans submitted to Geneva.

Only one delegate seemed to realise the possible electoral consequences.

It will gain force from here," protested Mr. W. A. Ball, of Birmingham, "that we are a war party. As one who has to uphold the party's policy at street corners, I don't feel happy about it." He was promptly shouted down.

It was into this atmosphere of bellicosity that Mr. K. R. F. Steel-Maitland and Mr. J. R. J. Crichton, of Oxford University Conservative Association, dared to enter armed only with the weapon of "sweet reasonableness."

All day they had listened to

Mr. Churchill, emphasising the dangerous state of Europe and insisting that the moment had come to change our armaments policy whatever the cost.

Lord Lloyd, sneering at "teachable pacifists" while moving a resolution deploring "the inadequacy of the provisions made for Imperial defence."

Mr. L. S. Amery, insisting that peace should be kept only by increased armaments and that they should send out a counterblast to the anti-war motion passed by Labour at Hastings.

THE CHOICE.

And finally they heard the cheering that followed the unanimous carrying of Lord Lloyd's resolution calling for more armaments.

No wonder they found it difficult to bring forward a motion calling for the removal of European grievances by the peaceful revision of the Treaty of Versailles.

But Mr. Steel-Maitland dared to move it and to argue with obvious sincerity and conviction that, as revision was bound to come, it would be better to do it by consent rather than by force.

"The choice," he insisted, "is before you. I beg you to choose quickly before it is too late."

STONY SILENCE.

Mr. Crichton said that, rightly or wrongly, the Germans were prepared to resort to force to redress their grievances and wipe out what they consider their degradation.

All over Europe there was tinder, which, if ignited, would cause a conflagration greater than the world had ever seen.

"There is a good hope," he declared, "of settling these territorial and economic problems by peaceful means, but delay is dangerous."

Both undergraduates were listened to in stony silence. Not a single "hear, hear" or cheer relieved the hostility. Their motion was overwhelmingly defeated.

There was a similar lack of enthusiasm while Sir Hilton Young, Minister of Health, was revealing the extent to which local authorities had responded to the Government's demand for a five years' campaign against slums.

On the basis of these returns it was estimated that in five years they would clear 210,000 slum houses and re-house 1,050,000 people.

It would mean an outlay of £36,000,000 or an average of £19,000,000 a year for the five years. It would entail for years a charge of £2,750,000 a year to the State and £325,000 a year to local authorities.

Unfortunately, there were laggards. The Government were bound not to be content with this position. He had adequate powers to deal with laggards and would not hesitate to use them.

JAPANESE GOODS.

On behalf of the Government, Lord Plymouth, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, resisted a demand by Major H. A. Procter, a Lancashire M.P., that all Japanese goods should be prohibited from entering the Colonies.

Lord Plymouth argued that such a step would "plunge us into immediate economic war with Japan," and asked the Conference to await the results of the negotiations now in progress with Japan.

The Conference responded to this and defeated Major Procter's embargo demand.

THE BUCHMANITES' CHALLENGE

BLESSING ON TEAM OF 500

St. Paul's Cathedral was crowded when a team of the Oxford "Group" founded in America by Dr. Buchman was commissioned by the Bishop of London for a campaign in London till Christmas.

The team, 500 strong, of whom the majority were women, filed in to the places reserved for them facing the chancel. Youth was represented by about 60 per cent. The rest were middle-aged or elderly. There appeared to be only a small minority of undergraduates.

Several Germans, including Professor Karl Fezer (Professor of Theology at Tübingen), Dr. Hans Wahl (Chancellor of the German Evangelical Church), and Dr. Friedrich Krummacker (German Evangelical Chancellor), who had flown over from Berlin, were among the team.

The address was by the Bishop of Calcutta. He defined what he described as the challenge of the Group to London in these words: "You must put Christ in the centre of your personal and family life and social and industrial organisation."

After prayers and hymns, Dr. Buchman left his seat among the team, walked towards the chancel and, addressing the Bishop, said: "Reverend Father in God, bid a blessing upon those who go forth in the name of Christ, that they may rejoice in the power of the Holy Spirit."

The Bishop replied: "Go forth, my brothers, in the faith of Him who is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, in whom let your glorifying abound unto all generations. For this cause, let us bow our knees unto the Father."

EVANGELISTIC WORK IN TERRITORIES.

JOINT MEETING OF CHINESE AND FOREIGN CHURCHES

A joint meeting of the Chinese and Foreign Churches interested in the evangelistic work in the New Territories was held on Saturday in Yuen Long church. Representatives were present from almost all the congregations of the New Territories, not excepting those so distant as Cheung Chau and Lan Tau, also from the Union Churches in Hongkong and Kowloon. The chair was taken by the Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling, who was recently appointed by the Sixth District of the Kwangtung Synod of the Church of Christ in China, Chairman of the Committee in charge of work in the New Territories.

An address was given by Mr. Sz To-chung, Chairman of the Sixth District, and the three new workers were cordially welcomed. Miss Hoh Sun-wing has been appointed for work among women, particularly by means of literature, while Miss Blackman of the London Missionary Society and Mr. Li Kwok-hung are to be engaged in evangelistic work.

Rev. E. G. Powell and Rev. Li Shu-kwai spoke briefly on behalf of the Union and Chinese churches respectively.

Musical items were provided by the Girls' School and the Ping Shan Musical Society, and refreshments were served at the close.

CANCER CURES INCREASE

BUT SURGERY LIMITS HAVE BEEN REACHED

Lord Moynihan, the eminent surgeon, opening an extension of the Liverpool Radium Institute and Hospital for Cancer and Skin Diseases said that cancer was the only one of the great six killing diseases which was on the increase.

Among the reasons given was that more people were living to the cancer age, and there was a greater accuracy in diagnosis. The former might be true, but it was not true that that was a considerable factor in the great increase of mortality through this disease.

Despite the mortality, far more people were being cured of cancer by operation than ever before in the history of surgery. It was being asked if that was so, why could they not cure it?

Some members of his own profession were rather sceptical about operations and other methods of treating a disease, and when patients visited those doctors they were not infrequently apt to use the phrase, "Wait and see."

If a postponed operation was performed, even by the most expert surgeon, the patient ran a greater risk of recurrence of the disease than if an operation had been performed at the earlier stage.

"I think a meeting of this kind is most desirable in the public interest," said Lord Moynihan, "because the public must learn first that the limits of surgery have almost been reached in its attack upon this problem of cancer."

"I am convinced that further progress in the direction of curable cancer can only occur when we take the public into our confidence. I have been told that my advocacy of enlightening the public on the disease, will only have the result of frightening them to death. On the contrary, I am sure that my advocacy will frighten people to life."

RUNAWAY CAR LOOPS LOOP

MAN BURIES HEAD IN SAND TO ESCAPE

A runaway motor-car, with a man clinging to the steering wheel, "looped the loop" over the edge of the western esplanade at West-cliffe-on-sea, and landing squarely on its four wheels, charged down the sloping sea wall on the crowded beach.

There was a stampede of holiday-makers. Women screamed and men fell over one another in the rush for safety.

Fortunately only two people—Mr. and Mrs. William Pegg, of Oakridge-road, Downham, Kent—were injured.

Mr. Pegg was lying face downward on the sand and was half asleep. It was too late for him to rise when he saw the car coming towards him, so he buried his head in the sand, protecting it with his hands.

Two wheels of the car passed over him. Mrs. Pegg was struck as she tried to jump clear.

They were taken to Southend Hospital, where Mr. Pegg was treated for a badly bruised back, and Mrs. Pegg for a lacerated arm. Neither was detained.

The motor-car was owned by Mr. Cunliffe Owen, of Marine-avenue, Southend. A man named Laurie Kenny was backing it out of a car park when it got out of control. Kenny, who remained at the wheel, was uninjured.

PERFORMING RIGHTS SOCIETY

BRANCH OPENED IN HONGKONG

Recent rumours regarding the proposed establishment of a branch of the Performing Rights Society in Hongkong have crystallised with the arrival of Mr. F. Cason Bonardel, and the registration of the English Society under the local Companies Ordinance.

Rumourings of the Society are so wide that they will cover all performances at local Cinemas, Cabarets, Dance Halls, Hotels, and the broadcasting station.

Official Statement.

The following statement was issued to the Press by the Society yesterday afternoon:

During last week The Performing Rights Society Ltd., which is incorporated in England, was locally registered as a Company, under the Companies Ordinances, and intends to commence activities at the end of the present year.

Monsieur Cason Bonardel, of Shanghai, has been appointed the Agent and representative of the Cartel des Societes d'Auteurs, whose head office is in Paris, and this Agency extends to Hongkong, Shanghai, Macao and Manchuria.

The Cartel is really an affiliation of the five chief Performing Rights Societies of Europe, including the Societe des Auteurs, Compositeurs et Editeurs de Musique, Paris, the Societa Italiana degli Autori ed Editori, Rome, the Genossenschaft zur Verwertung Musikallscher aufwungsverrechte, Berlin, the Gesellschaft der Autoren Komponisten und Musikverleger, Vienna, and the Performing Rights Society Ltd. of London.

In Hongkong however, the Performing Rights Society will function by authority of the Cartel, but this Society being a British organisation, its aims and objects will be more easily explicable.

Formation of Society.

The circumstances which led to the Society's formation were as follows:

Under the British Copyright Act, 1911, which, by proclamation of the then Governor in Council, was extended to this Colony on June 28, 1912, performing right is established as one of the constituent parts of copyright, and the owner of the copyright in a musical work, has, under that Act, the sole right of performing or authorising the performance of the work in public. The Act extends to all classes of musical works without distinction, and whilst it is generally appreciated that the consent of the composer, author or owner of the copyright is necessary before such works as operas or plays are performed in public, it is not always realised that such consent is also necessary in the case of shorter works, such as sonatas, instrumental suites, songs, dance numbers, etc.

Most civilised countries have enacted legislation similar to the British Copyright Act, and have either joined the International Copyright Convention or concluded copyright treaties with other countries whereby each country extends the same protection in its own territory to the works of foreigners as it does to the works of its own nationals.

Rights of Composers.

The rights of copyright owners having thus been established, it became necessary to provide the means whereby they might effectively protect their performing rights and obtain the benefits to which they were entitled. This presented no difficulty in the case of large works, where the copyright owner could obtain his remuneration direct; but in the case of shorter works as above described, which were performed publicly thousands of times daily at all sorts of entertainments throughout the country, some special method had to be devised. In practice it would be intolerably troublesome, if not wholly impracticable, for persons who desired permission to perform copyright music in public to communicate separately with every copyright owner or every piece of music on each occasion, and it would be impossible for individual copyright owners to deal with such applications.

The problem was solved by the formation, in 1914, of the Performing Rights Society. Many British composers, authors, arrangers and publishers of copyright musical works joined the Society, and vested in it the control of the public performing right in such works. Since that time its membership has continuously increased, and it now represents practically all well-known British composers, authors and publishers.

A similar Society was formed in France by French composers and copyright owners nearly eighty years ago, and during the last twenty years organisations administered on similar lines have been established in practically every other civilised country, including the United States of America, Germany, Austria, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Switzerland, Roumania, Brazil, Portugal, Norway and Finland. The Societies of those countries have become affiliated to the British Society, and have transferred to it the right to licence the public performances in British territory of the copyright musical works of their respective members and to restrain unauthorised performances thereof.

Objects of Licences.

The Society is thus able to grant to those concerned with public performances of copyright music a comprehensive licence which covers not only the works of its own members, but also those of members of the affiliated Societies, numbering approximately 26,000 members and about two million works. The Society's licence helps those responsible for public performances of music to comply with the provisions of the Copyright Acts, and to avoid penalties for infringements, by giving them a general permission covering the public performance of any of the works which the Society controls.

The Society is protective of those who hold its licence, but it has to assert the rights of its members against persons who make unauthorised use of their music. Therefore, by its Agents and correspondence, it endeavours to acquaint all those responsible for public musical entertainments with their legal liabilities, its purpose being to leave no such person in a position to plead that "he did not know" that the music he performed was protected by the Copyright Law. There is, however, no legal obligation on the Society to take such steps, for knowledge that there is copyright in music is presumed, and the onus is on those concerned in the public performance of copyright music to obtain the permission of the owner of the performing right.

Reproduction Banned.

Further, the possession of a printed copy of a copyright musical work, or of a gramophone record or other contrivance capable of reproducing such work audibly, does not imply or convey to the holder or owner thereof any right to perform or to authorise the performance of the work in public, irrespective of whether such printed copy, record, etc., is received as a gift or on loan, or acquired by purchase or otherwise.

The offices of the Society are, for the time being, situated at St. George's Building, 2nd floor, and by the beginning of the year all the proprietors or licensees of premises where music is publicly

CHINA OUTLOOK

WANG CHING-WEI PAYS SOONG COMPLIMENT

Nanking, Oct. 30.

In the course of a speech at National Government headquarters this morning, in which he reviewed domestic and international developments, Mr. Wang Ching-wei paid high tribute to Mr. T. V. Soong's untiring efforts in tackling the Government's financial problems since the Mukden outbreak in 1931. The accomplishments of the retiring Minister, he said, had won the admiration of all the Government leaders.

Turning to the international situation, Mr. Wang regretted Germany's withdrawal from the League, although he thought it unjustified to say that Germany's action had caused an immediate cleavage of the peace structure of Europe.

Regarding the reports of a possible resumption of diplomatic relations between the Soviet and the United States, Mr. Wang said the resumption would be a happy event from the standpoint of world and Far Eastern peace.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei finally stressed China's desire for peace, as peaceful conditions were essential for the execution of China's constructive projects.—Reuter.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN PALESTINE.

JEWISH PROFESSOR'S OPINION

London, Oct. 30.

"The present demonstrations in Palestine are not justified," declared Professor Neville Laski, addressing a conference for the relief of German Jews.

The conference was held in London and was attended by delegates from 46 nations.

The Government of Palestine, said Prof. Laski, erred on the side of over-caution in its immigration policy. The Arab population had largely increased, especially in the districts adjoining Jewish districts.

Prof. Laski hoped that the time was approaching when Palestine would be a common country for both races.—Reuter.

performed, or those who are known to promote musical entertainment of any kind, will be deemed to have been duly warned that they will no longer be allowed to perform publicly the works of any of the members of the Society, or the affiliated Societies, without the permission of the Society.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Contract bridge is a partnership game, and therefore, to play it successfully, it is necessary to learn a bidding system. Naturally, the most enjoyment will be derived from a system that can be understood by the greater majority of players.

This you will find true of the one over one system, as it employs only natural card inferences. A brief summary of the system and some of the finer tactics that are employed is given in to-day's article.

A player's skill at contract bidding depends upon his ability to classify correctly the various bids. Therefore, before making a bid, try to picture the message it will convey to partner and particularly whether or not it will force or invite him to continue the bidding. A brief summary of the one over one system is as follows:

First and second hand original bids are made with strong hands and show not only strength in high cards, but also a definite rebid.

Third hand may open very light—it is the ideal position to employ a psychic bid.

A fourth hand original bid is made with less strength than that required to make an original first or second hand bid.

An original bid of one no trump shows at least three, and probably four, suits stopped. It further shows a hand that will probably gain an extra trick by being led to rather than through. It does not deny a biddable four-card suit. It is a constructive bid and invites partner to continue bidding.

An original bid of one of a suit shows a hand that is willing to become the dummy if the hand is to be played at no trump, and first or second hands it is a constructive bid inviting partner to keep the bidding open with very little strength.

An original bid of two no trump shows all four suits stopped and guarantees partner a five card suit as good as the A J K with which to work. It is a forcing bid.

An original bid of two of a suit shows a hand of tremendous strength and guarantees game even though partner's hand is trickless. It further shows a hand that can become the dummy, especially if played at a no trump contract.

It is a forcing bid and places an obligation on both partners to continue bidding until the final declaration is a game-going contract.

An original bid of three no trump shows a hand top-heavy with high card tricks. Rather than asking for information from partner, it endeavours to give partner a complete picture of the hand. However, it is not a forcing bid.

An original bid of three of a suit shows a hand of tremendous strength and guarantees game even though partner's hand is trickless. It further shows a hand that wants to be the declarer and has no desire to play the hand at no trump. It is a forcing bid, asking partner to show an ace if he holds one, in the hope that a slam may be reached.

An original bid of four or five of a suit is made with a hand containing a long trump suit and no defensive strength. It is a preemptive bid and is made solely to shut out the opponents, but it must be remembered that it also shuts partner out. It is a much abused bid and care should be taken out to make this bid too frequently.

What to do when the opponents have opened the bidding is always a problem with the beginner at contract, and this will be explained in to-morrow's article.

THREE BARBERS VICTIMISED

FRIEND STEALS PAIR OF HAIR CLIPPERS

A charge of stealing three pairs of hair clippers and $8.80 from three barbers employed at the Li Shing Barber shop, was brought against Lo Yew-tong, when he appeared before Mr. Schofield in the Central Magistracy this morning.

Sub-Inspector Rogers said defendant was a barber and used to visit complainant's shop. After he had left they found the articles missing. The defendant was not suspected, but while visiting his house the complainants caught him in the act of destroying pawn tickets.

Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was passed and accused was also ordered to make amends.

TRAFFIC OFFENCES

MOTOR CYCLE DRIVEN AT EXCESSIVE SPEED.

Ma Wei-sheng, of 32, Robinson Road, summoned before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for having ridden a motor cycle at an excessive speed in Garden Road, was fined $25.

Sha Hung, a lorry driver, was fined $10 for having disobeyed a traffic signal at the junction of Des Voeux Road and Jackson Road.

Sub-Inspector Nicol said that the defendant drove along Jackson Road against the signal, and a tramcar and a bus coming along Des Voeux Road had to stop.

ATLANTIC AIR MAIL

SIR ERIC GEDDES' SURVEY

PLAN OF IMPERIAL AIRWAYS

London, Oct. 30.
Presiding at the general meeting of Imperial Airways to-day, Sir Eric Geddes referred to the extension of the England-India route to Australia.

He said the service had been extended from Karachi to Rangoon, and by the end of December would be operating to Singapore. The Australian Government, he said, has assumed responsibility for establishing a line from Singapore to a point in Australia, and has decided to invite tenders for the carriage of air mails over the section of the line.

The Imperial Airways have made a concordat with Queensland and Northern Territory Aerial Services Limited of Brisbane for formation of joint company to tender for and if successful, to operate to Singapore. Attention was now being devoted to the North Atlantic project and the company had made satisfactory contracts in regard to co-operation with Canadian and New Foundland Governments on this route.

TRANS-ATLANTIC PROJECT.

"Canada is likely to be by force of circumstances, the last of the Great Dominions with whom we shall make contact by means of a regular air service," Sir Eric said. "We can, however, look forward to developments taking place on this Trans-Atlantic project in complete harmony with Great Britain and Canada."

They hoped to establish during

Sze Lam, an unemployed aged 28 years, was sent to prison for two months by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning for stealing a gold bangle, valued at $22, from Cheng Ngau-Jai, a nine-year-old girl.

The girl was asleep on board the Shekki junk when the theft occurred. Her mother was seated beside her. She was awake and saw the defendant snatch the bangle. He was arrested by a constable on search duty aboard the craft.

ALLEGED THEFT FROM JACKET

16 YEAR OLD GIRL IN COURT

Chan Mui-kwai, a girl aged 16, pleaded guilty before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning to stealing a purse containing $5.75 at 373, Queen's Road Central. She was remanded until to-morrow for enquiries.

Sub-Inspector Kirby said that yesterday afternoon defendant entered the shop and asked permission to use the telephone. Her request granted she was seen to extract the purse from a jacket which was hanging on the wall near the phone.

next year, in co-operation with the Pan-American Airways, a service between Bermuda and United States.

Sir Eric cited the large increase in traffic carried by the Imperial Airways during past year.—British Wireless.
